Building Committee To Investigate Available Sites For Junior High

No Official Word of Federal Grant Received But Committee Is Directed To Obtain Prices and Submit Report.

PART TIME SCHOOL

Superintendent's Report Shows Attendance at Part-Time School Is Light Again This Year.

The Board of Education at its meeting Friday night directed its building committee to make an investigation of available sites on which a junior high school could be erected and also to obtain prices and be ready to sumbit a report at the next meeting of the board. It was stated that it may be necessary to hold a special meeting, and if that was so it was hoped that the committee would be ready to submit a report at that time.

Commissioner Fred J. Walter, chairman of the building committee, informed the board that no official word had been received in regard to the federal grant for the junior high school, and all that was known was what had appeared in the newspapers. He said that judging from the published reports, however, that Kingston had been allowed the full 45 per cent of the grant asked.

It was said that some cities and villages had only received from 35 to 38 per cent of the grant asked.

Architect George E. Lowe is busy at work on the plans for the new school. These plans have been tentatively approved by the State Education Board. When the plans were first filed with the state department at Albany several changes were suggested in the plans and these changes are now being incorporated in the plans being prepared.

As stated in The Freeman last night the Public Works Administration has allotted the sum of $382,500 for the construction of a junior high school here, which amount is 44 per cent of the total cost of $850,000. Last night the members of the education board expressed themselves as highly gratified at the city being granted the full amount of federal funds asked for.

As the board had received no official word as to the grant of federal funds it was stated that nothing further could be done aside from authorizing the building committee to investigate and obtain prices on proposed sites on which to erect the junior high school.

The board granted requests from the principal of the New Paltz Normal School for the use of one room in the high school for an extension course for teachers, and a similar request from the New York University for the use of a room one night a week.

The use of one of the study halls was granted the post office department for the purpose of holding a federal civil service examination for the position of clerk or carrier in the post office department. It was stated that approximately 300 would take the examination which was to be held on Saturday, October 19.

The rules committee recommended the appointment of Frederick Hoffman on the Part Time Advisory Board to succeed his father, the late A. W. Hoffman, for a term to expire in 1937, also the reappointment of E. E. Fessenden and Ivar Jungquist for terms expiring in 1937. The recommendations of the committee was unanimously adopted by the board.

The public schools will be closed on Thursday and Friday, October 17 and 18, so that the faculties of the schools may attend the teachers' conference to be held this year in Albany.

Superintendent's Report

Superintendent B. C. Van Ingen submitted the following report:

Our part time school registration is light again this year as in the preceding three or four years. The unemployed boy and girl of part time school age is entering the regular school for full time instruction.

The number registered is 31 boys and 52 girls. Approximately 12 are still to be reported.

Last year the part time school instructed about 160 pupils from the upper grades in elementary homemaking and shop. This was given one half day each week to the students in groups of fifteen who came to the manual arts building from the several schools. This proved so satisfactory that the plan is continued this year with 41 boys and 36 girls. There are more who desire this work than can be accommodated. There is, therefore, a waiting list.

Last year for the first time, instrumental music instruction was offered to pupils in the upper grades of the grammar schools. This experiment was very successful. Of those taking this work last year, 173 are again registered for more advanced work with the violin and with wind instruments.

This year's beginning groups register 62 in the wind instrument classes and 51 in the violin classes.

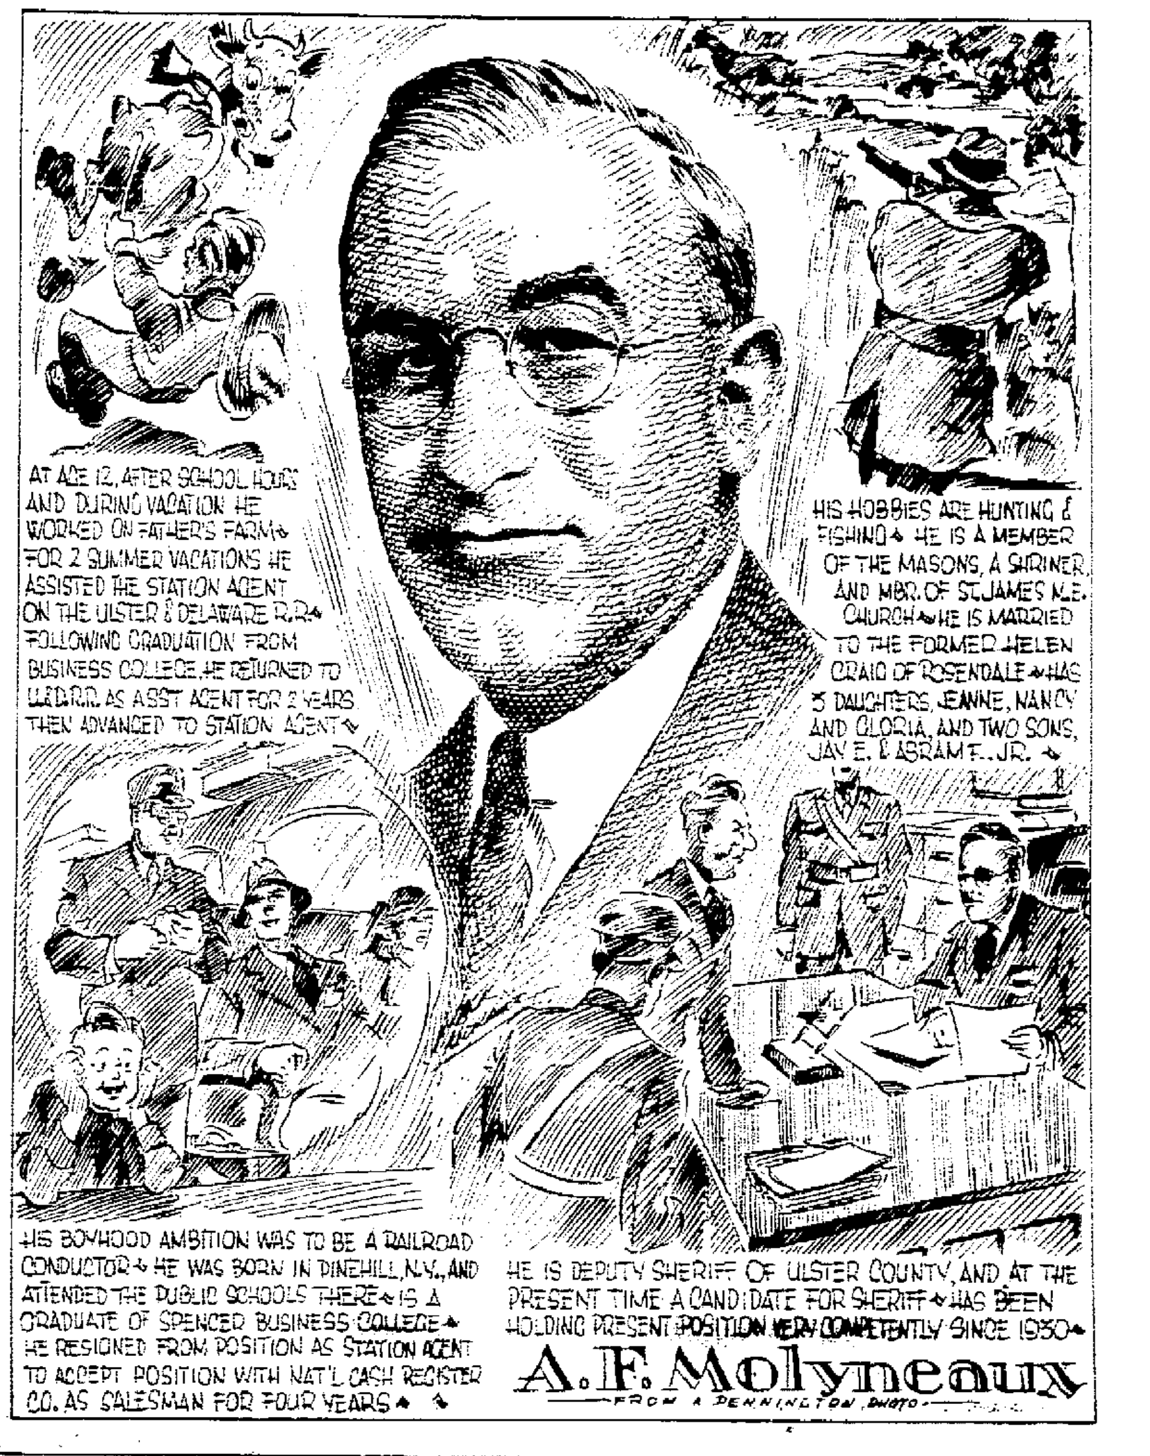

This will lead to development of orchestras in the grammar schools and later provide more trained candidates for the high school orchestra.

During the first month of the term I have visited all class rooms. The new year opens auspiciously and indicates a successful year.

The board then adjourned.

Italy Reassures League, Offers Peace to England

(By the Associated Press)

Italy's cabinet today declared that nation will not break with the League of Nations until the League itself assumes full responsibility for measures against Italy, and made a sudden gesture of peace toward Great Britain.

"Italy's policy has no immediate or remote aims which could injure Great Britain's interests," the ministers, meeting with Premier Mussolini announced.

The cabinet, however, took sharp issue with League of Nations procedure in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and struck a new blow at Ethiopia's alleged lack of good faith.

Despite the warning that "grave events" were impending, the League of Nations assembly adjourned today, but ready to meet instantly in the event of an SOS call in any new Italo-Ethiopian emergency.

The League Council, sitting as a committee of thirteen, decided in a private session to submit to Italy a request by Ethiopia for the dispatch of neutral observers to the Ethiopian frontiers.

Emperor Haile Selassie had requested these observers fearing Italy might take advantage of a border incident as a pretext for an outbreak of hostilities.

Apprehension in Britain and France, but some degree of satisfaction in Germany were the mingled emotions which greeted developments in the East African dispute.

High British authorities admitted the European situation, coupled with the absence of the home fleet, now in Mediterranean waters, had spurred the government to speed up its emergency naval construction program.

Premier Laval of France was deeply concerned lest the third Reich, taking advantage of a disturbed Europe might become more conciliatory with Italy. French diplomats consequently were seeking to strengthen Franco-British bonds.

Should sanctions be invoked in the event of war in East Africa, German officials admitted such a development might open up new markets in Germany. This brought hope for relief in the Reich's economic tangle.

The Suez Canal Company indicated its intention of keeping the canal open regardless of what sanctions might be taken. Sanctions which would lead to the closing of the canal would seriously hamper Italian movement of troops and war materials to its East African colonies.

Ethiopian soldiers grew so frenzied in the military pageantry marking the festival of Maskal that the emperor provided the Italian minister with a special guard to prevent any physical assault or even insult to the envoy.

1,500 Cuban Refugees Flee Hurricane Today

By The Associated Press

Ripping into Cuba and snapping at the Florida coast, another hurricane menace lowered over the West Indies today.

The storm, marked by high winds and heavy rain, struck Camaguey province, 300 miles east of Havana. It seemed to center early today slightly west of Santa Cruz Del Sur and east of Trinidad.

Special trains carried more than 1,500 refugees from Santa Cruz Del Sur into Havana during the night.

So far as crippled communication facilities enabled officials to learn, there were no casualties.

The storm, described by the Jacksonville, Fla., weather bureau as a "tropical disturbance probably still of hurricane intensity," was said in mid-morning to be centered about 200 miles south of Miami, "apparently moving northward."

Vessels and persons along the southeast coast of Florida were warned to "retire to safe places until the storm passes."

The unprotected keys south of Miami where 400 lives were lost in a hurricane early this month have been evacuated.

The southeast Florida coast does not appear to be in the "immediate line" of the blow, but the weather bureau at Jacksonville said: "It is too close to take any chances."

Committee Named To Investigate Condition of County Auditor's Fund

Request For About $13,000 To Pay Bills Now Due and Carry Office On Until End of Year Is Defeated.

CHARGE POLITICS

Democratic Resolution Calling For Highway Money for Woodstock and Shandaken Defeated.

Several matters pertaining to the County Highway Department and the investigation of the County Auditor's office combined Friday evening to make the meeting of the Board of Supervisors one of the longest and hottest sessions which has been held in many years. Charges of playing politics were hurled by various supervisors at fellow legislators, an attack was made by the Republican members on the method of appropriating county highway funds by the Democratic board and a resolution sponsored by Supervisor George, Democrat from Denning, calling for an appropriation of $5,000 to be expended in the towns of Woodstock and Shandaken on the Bearsville-Mt. Tremper county road, was defeated after a long debate by a vote of 17 to 16 in the first test since the board came under Republican control through the appointment of Matthew Williams in Hurley to succeed the late Matthew T. E. DeWitt, Democrat. The Democratic resolution was defeated by a party vote on the grounds that the sum of $2,500 in Shandaken and $2,500 in Woodstock would not be sufficient to accomplish anything at this season of the year. Both Supervisors Voss of Shandaken and Cashdollar of Woodstock opposed the resolution, which was classified as a "political move" on the part of Democratic members of the board. Eleven bridges in the county were placed on a list to be submitted as a WPA project and another matter which came up for discussion was the payment or lack of payment of county bills by the county auditor. A committee was named by resolution to investigate the financial condition of the county auditor's fund, which in a communication from the county auditor it was stated was about $10,000 short. The request of the county auditor for about $13,000 to pay bills now due and carry the office on until the end of the present year, was defeated by the vote of 17 to 16, pending an investigation and report by a committee appointed to audit the auditor's accounts and report to the board. All 17 Republicans voted to deny the request for additional funds until the committee reported on how much, to whom and how long the bills had been due. The 16 Democratic supervisors voted to appropriate the requested funds.

The meeting scheduled for 7:30 o'clock did not get under way until after 8 o'clock, due to caucuses held by both parties. When the meeting was called to order by Chairman Alfred Markle of Rochester, the members of the board were faced with the unusual situation of having a chairman and clerk named by the minority party.

One of the matters disposed of in a peaceful manner was the [illegible] of all improved county and state roads in the county of the list from which snow will be removed at state and county expense. The state pays up to [illegible] per mile under the joint agreement. In all [illegible] miles of roads are on the list which will be submitted to the state department for approval. This action must be taken [illegible]. The board voted unanimously [illegible] of improved county and state roads on the list from which snow [illegible] will be done at state and [illegible].

County Auditor Reports

[illegible] was [illegible] peaceful. At the last meeting Supervisor Hasworth of [illegible] offered a resolution that an investigation be made of a number of [illegible] county purchasing agent and county auditor's office [illegible] a large number of bills [illegible] and that some bills had [illegible] since May. At that time the board was still controlled by the Democrats by one vote [illegible] absence of this controlling [illegible] the board was a tie when a vote was taken. The Elsworth resolution was lost when the vote proved a tie 16 to 16. That resolution called for a detailed statement of the condition of the auditor's funds and the amount of outstanding bills.

Mr. Lefevre submitted the following report which was read by Clerk Rice. The report was received and filed without comment but later in the evening when Supervisors Shultis and Callen offered a resolution that the sum of $13,765.46 be appropriated to meet bills due and pay bills until the end of the year there was a long discussion. The result was

Antonio Pace Victim Of Hit and Run Driver On Highland Road

Another hit and run death confronts the county officials following the death of Antonio Pace, 55, of 6 Hill Block, West Concord, Mass., who was found fatally injured along the Kingston-Highland road about 10:45 o'clock Friday night. Pace, unemployed, had been picking berries in southern Ulster and lived in a shack on the Doice farm. His nightly custom was to walk along the road from his place of abode to some place of business on the road. At the time of the accident he apparently was walking on the right side of the road coming north about 200 feet south of the Riverside Garage when a passing car struck him. Fatally injured, he was left lying along the road apparently for some time, for when Ernest Mackey of Highland found Pace the blood was already congealing on the forehead, indicating that the injury had taken place some minutes prior. Pace died while being brought to the hospital in the car of Daniel Stokes who was summoned by Mr. Mackey.

People in the vicinity, who knew the custom of Pace, told State Trooper Paul Senecal of the Port Ewen station, that he usually was seen walking along the road at about 11 o'clock or shortly prior. At first Trooper Senecal had difficulty in learning the identity of the injured man, who was unconscious when found. However after an investigation in the locality to learn who the man might be, he learned at Highland that Pace had been living on the Doice farm, and there he obtained a letter in Italian which had been written to Pace. There were no marks of identity on the injured man's clothing and [illegible] investigation [illegible] check was being made [illegible] might be.

It was about 10:45 [illegible] Ernest Mackey was [illegible] the road and came upon [illegible] the injured man. Princeton University Student Injured In Auto Accident Here

Lindley W. Tiers, 24, of Cooperstown, a well-known hockey and tennis player at Princeton University, was badly injured and his new Ford V-8 coupe badly damaged when it crashed into a Studebaker car driven by Grant Jones of Lake Katrine near the Lake Katrine Inn on the Saugerties road. Tiers was removed to the Inn where he was treated by Dr. Maurice Silk. Jones escaped injury, although his car was also badly damaged.

According to State Trooper Arthur Reilly, who was called to the scene of the accident which occurred about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, Mr. Jones was driving out the Saugerties road and was just about to make the turn into the Lake Katrine road at the Inn, when the Ford car also traveling toward Saugerties struck the Jones car directly in the center.

So great was the force of the impact that the whole front end of the Ford car was wrecked, the motor shoved back and the steering wheel snapped off. Tiers narrowly escaped having his lungs punctured. He is suffering from injuries to his chest and ribs and possible concussion of the brain.

The Jones car was also badly damaged but Jones escaped injury.

Both damaged cars were towed off the road so that traffic could proceed.

Both men were riding alone in their cars at the time of the crash.

Deputy Sheriff Clayton [illegible] responded to a call sent the sheriff's office and he and the State Trooper investigated the accident and took charge of traffic.

Counterfeiters Get Six-Month Sentences

New York, Sept. 28 (Special)—Hugo Albani and Carmine Coppola, part of a ring of counterfeiters who operated from a four-room bungalow near High Falls, were sentenced to six months each in the Federal House of Detention, New York, by Judge T. Blake Kennedy in United States District Court here Friday.

The two men had pleaded guilty to participating in the manufacture and distribution of a flood of spurious one dollar bills which were found as far west as Chicago.

Secret Service agents declared that there was enough paper and other material in the place for the manufacture of $1,000,000 in counterfeit bills. The plant was stated to be the largest of its type discovered in this part of the country.

The third man seized during the raid by federal agents on August 2, Albert Ravona, may go free as the result of a court order suppressing the evidence accumulated in the bungalow insofar as it affects him. His contention that the raiders, who did not have a search warrant, violated his constitutional rights when they entered the bungalow, which he maintained was his home, was sustained by the court.

The district attorney will determine whether to prosecute Ravona after an examination of the remaining evidence.

Doty Resigns from Newcombe Oil Co.

At the main office of the A. R. Newcombe Oil Company, a branch of the Cities Service Company, 683 Broadway, this morning, Lucius H. Doty verified reports that he had tendered his resignation as general manager, effective November 1.

Mr. Doty resigned to enjoy a well earned vacation from his activities in the gasoline and oil business which he conducted for the Newcombe company in six counties—Ulster, Orange, Greene, Delaware, Albany and Rensselaer. When asked about his plans after the vacation, Mr. Doty said he hadn't contemplated any yet, but probably will enter the same field some time in the spring.

Besides being prominent in Kingston as the executive head of the Newcombe interests, Mr. Doty stood out in other phases of life here, being a member of the Consistory of the Old Dutch Church, of the Kiwanis Club, which he served once as president, and of the American Legion. He was chairman of the drive put on by the Legion several years ago to stimulate improvement in properties here and to give work to the idle.

Prior to taking up his residence in Kingston, Mr. Doty was with the A. R. Newcombe Company in Catskill. He had been an executive of this firm from 1920 until it was absorbed by the Cities Service Company for a price said to have been $1,500,000. After the transaction he remained with the new business organization as vice-president and general manager.

Those with whom Mr. Doty dealt as a superior in the Cities Service firm itself and as customers of the oil company will wish him a pleasant vacation earned by years of incessant labor and loyal devotion to the organization which probably will miss him for his ability and faithfulness.

Many Capitol Anecdotes Told Of 'Jim Ham' Lewis, Now Critically Ill In Russia

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Few members of the United States senate have had such a store of personal anecdotes and stories built up around them as has the sartorially elegant "Jim Ham" Lewis of Illinois, who is reported critically ill in Moscow.

Everything about him—from his deep resonant voice that so reminds one of a bass violin to his latest choice in waistcoats—has been made the subject of a story. He never seems to mind, however. Even the jibes at his choice of wearing apparel don't bother him.

"There's no relationship between statesmanship and what a man wears," he once observed.

Borah His Best Friend

PERHAPS his best friend in the senate is Borah of Idaho. As far apart in their political philosophies as any two probably could be, they nevertheless have an abiding respect and admiration for each other.

Lewis once was asked why it was that he and Borah never clashed. The explanation, he said, dates back many years when the two were unknown young lawyers in the west. They found themselves once as opposing counsel in a lawsuit.

Lewis' client was a high-strung, excitable woman. During the course of his argument Borah said some rather harsh things about her. He so infuriated her at one point that she started out after Borah in court with an umbrella. She was flailing away at his head when Lewis intervened. Forgetting that Lewis was defending her, she turned on him with the umbrella and almost thrashed the daylights out of him.

"We barely knew each other until that incident," says Lewis, "but the licking that good woman gave me and Bill Borah started a close personal friendship that has lasted through the years."

His Manner Courtly

THE courtliness of Senator Lewis is proverbial around Washington. It is said of him that he couldn't let a street car pass him without doffing his hat, thinking perhaps someone was aboard he should speak to.

He is proud of the fact that he was the first ever to hold the position as Democratic whip of the senate. He took his duties in this post with great seriousness.

His associates recognize him as a master politician. Court verdicts testify to his ability as a lawyer. Votes have reflected the power of his oratory. Citations of his legal and historical works reflect his acumen.

Pageant at Bethany Chapel.

The G. C. G., young people's society of Bethany Chapel, will present on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, October 2 and 3, a beautiful pageant, entitled, "The Fruits of Peace." The pageant, which calls forth a cast of twenty-five people and a choir portrays vividly the the struggle Peace is having among the nations of the earth to prove to them that Peace is more progressive and to be desired than war—a lesson nations can't seem to grasp. A special background has been painted for the pageant, and together with lights and costumes will make a beautiful picture. The pageant will be given at 7:45 o'clock. No admission will be charged. An offering will be taken.

Understanding Employer

Austin, Tex. (AP)—Governor Allred knows how it is—he used to be a stenographer himself. So the other day when he noticed an error in press copies of a message he had sent to the legislature, he told the girl: "That's all right, we'll change them right here with a pen. I know how those things happen."

AN INVESTIGATION

The resolution offered Friday evening by the majority party in the Board of Supervisors calling for an investigation of the county auditor's office was not prompted by any plan to embarrass the Democrats or any thought that there was any crooked work afoot in that department, but was prompted by an earnest desire on the part of the Republicans to find out what had happened to monies appropriated and why there were so many unpaid bills

At a previous meeting of the board the Republicans, then in the minority, asked for an accounting of the county auditor's office, hoping to obtain knowledge which would explain where monies went and why a large number of bills remained unpaid. The Republicans met with defeat, Democrats quashing the attempt to bring to light the facts and figures. However, County Auditor LeFever heard of the Republican plea and presented a statement of sorts at the meeting Friday. This report was not at all what the Republicans had asked at the last meeting, it was not itemized or detailed but was a general survey of the situation emphasizing savings in the office since Democrats had controlled the board.

If these savings prove actual the Democrats should receive credit for them. Still Republicans have made charges that the savings are possible because so many of the bills owed by the board have not been paid. It has been further charged that Democrats have not appropriated enough monies to run the county leaving many local firms unpaid for the sake of making a pseudo saving for campaign purposes.

It is the Republican hope in the investigation to determine just what savings have been actually effected, where monies already appropriated have gone, and why bills have not been paid. Such a course will bring to light any lack of sufficient operating expenses and will of course make the Democrats the goats if it can be determined that bills are unpaid simply because funds are lacking through an attempt to make it appear that savings have been made. If the money needed was never appropriated because of campaign promises and hopes then merchants and others, who have monies coming from the county, have a right to know it. Likewise if everything is all right and funds are at hand debtors have a right to know why they were not paid.

Mr. LeFevre is not being investigated because anyone believes he is dishonest. The investigation is being had to determine what is what and it should prove of value to everyone in the county.

RADICAL CONSERVATISM

One of the latest moves of Premier Bennett of Canada, leader of the Conservative Party campaigning for continuance in power, is a broadside attack on debt. He proposes "comprehensive reconstruction of the Canadian debt structure, public, private, domestic and external." He would write down the property debts of city people by applying a principle already in force with farm owners, giving them a fresh start and letting them pay according to their "capacity." For the national debt he proposes a bare conversion scheme, refunding the obligations at lower interest rates and apparently scaling down the principal. Similar processes would be carried out with provincial, municipal and railway debts. Future government bonds would no longer be tax exempt. There would be full share of cooperation between federal provincial and municipal authorities for public and private debt relief.

This is a more radical program than has yet been attempted in the United States. It is the more interesting because it is put forward in the name of the Conservatives. Bennett seems to be outdoing the Liberals in their own game. American observers begin to wonder whether there will be any of the traditional British conservatism left in the usually moderate Dominion. Bennett is hardly expected to win, because he carries the political stigma of the depression, and because he has so drastically changed his policies that many question his sincerity and his hold on his own party. Nevertheless he is given credit for realizing, more clearly than many statesmen do, either in the Dominion or the States, that the "debt structure" is a fundamental problem, without whose solution many other vital problems cannot be solved.

ITALY HESITATES.

It begins to look as if Mussolini, after all, will not get away with it. Under British leadership, which combines military and naval power with effective diplomacy, the League of Nations is cracking down on him and nearly all the world is lining up against him. Even a modern Caesar cannot defy world opinion, backed by practical plans to deprive his fleets and armies of war supplies

It seems more and more likely that, if Mussolini proceeds in his wild adventure, he will get stuck in Abyssinian mud. Also in European mud—political and economic. Europe, supported by America, proposes to starve out his African campaign, not merely for the sake of the Abyssinians, but for the sake of modern civilization, which cannot stand another world war.

Recent rumors of Mussolini's support cracking at home might be mere wishful thinking Yet there may well be something in them. Surely there are statesmen and business men in Italy who long to curb a self-made autocrat drunk with power, lest he drag his own country down to ruin. No modern country—not Italy nor Germany nor any other—can live unto itself apart from the community of nations This fact, clear to the outer world, must be growing clearer in Rome

SYMPTOMS DUE TO FOODS

Many individuals suffer with one or more of the following symptoms: Sour stomach, belching of gas, coated tongue, nausea, or even vomiting, heavy burning pain in the stomach, cramps in the stomach or abdomen, constipation, diarrhoea.

They feel weak, tired, nervous, irritable and "thick-headed"

They go to their physician and by following his advice may feel better for a while and then return for further advice and help.

The physician may then give them a thorough overhauling, including an X-ray of the teeth and an X-ray of the stomach and intestines. If no organic trouble is found some patients seem to improve at once, but there are others who continue to suffer with the above mentioned symptoms.

Now research physicians are finding that the above symptoms are due to certain foods to which these individuals are sensitive, but because they do not come out in hives, get head colds, have attacks of hay fever or eczema, they do not suspect foods as being the cause of their symptoms. It is estimated that about ten percent of the population are greatly sensitive to certain foods and have these well marked symptoms

However, Dr. W. O. Browning in Tri-State Medical Journal, tells us that from 50 to 60 per cent of the population while not suffering with hives, eczema, asthma or head colds, do have one or more of the symptoms first mentioned. Persistent diarrhoea is one of the most frequent symptoms.

While skin tests—scratching the skin and rubbing the suspected food into the scratch—may locate some of the foods, this method is not entirely accurate. The best method, though slow, is for the patient to treat or rather watch himself. He is instructed to keep an accurate food diary, recording his daily diet and his symptoms that day.

By watching the diary carefully and checking up with the results found by the skin tests it is usually possible to work out a satisfactory diet that will soon bring relief.

This is a slow process but to be free from the distressing symptoms mentioned at the beginning of this article, is surely worth the effort.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Barnes is about to divorce her husband, Edwin. Edwin is an estimable young man, but so opinionated and narrow that living with him is impossible for a normal person Emily has gone to Morton Hall to visit Judith, her college roommate and sister of David Carroll, whom Emily has always remembered with warmth. But after the Carrolls lost their plantation, David disappeared into the wilds of Turkey. Emily does not know, but Judith has cabled David that the plantation is again on the market.

Chapter 39

DOGS AND BRIDGE

"DO WE wear evening dresses for this Dan Raynor?" Emily asked from the depths of her closet.

Judith swung her long legs over the arm of a chair. She was supervising Emily's toilet. "Heavens, no! He'll probably smell like saddle-soap and Glover's mange cure. And even when he's dressed up he looks as if he'd put on his clothes in the dark and slid down a firemen's pole."

Emily shook with mirth. "You leave me all a-flutter with the prospect. Then shall I wear riding boots and a sombrero?"

Judith considered. "Have you got something soft and floating and ineffably feminine? If you haven't you ought to have: you ought never to wear anything but sport clothes in the daytime and chiffons at night."

"I don't." She produced a beige chiffon, floor-length, with a deep yoke of cobwebby lace and long bell-shaped sleeves. "Will this do?"

"Perfect. I can hear the crash right now. I hope you've got a string of tiny pearls to go with it."

Emily laughed. "I have."

Judith grinned. "I wonder what made me think you needed looking after." She uncurled herself and rose. At the door she paused.

"I forgot to warn you that Dan is a widower and that he means no good by anyone. But I thought he'd be rather a relief after Edwin."

At the mention of Edwin her throat contracted. What was Edwin doing at this moment, she wondered: reading his paper, perhaps, in the oppressive Victorian solidity of his father's house? She resolutely closed the door of her memory on Edwin and smiled.

"Thanks for the hint. I'll try to keep my affections under control."

Judith chuckled. "I won't lose sleep over that."

DAN RAYNOR was just what Judith had described. Although his clothes were beautifully cut, it was obvious that Dan wore them on sufferance.

But he looked interesting, Emily decided; tall and rangy, with a thin, weather-beaten face that suggested that he had lived not wisely but too well.

There were deep lines at either side of his wide mouth, and a network of wrinkles at the corners of his eyes, but the eyes were dark and fine, and the smile he gave her revealed the most beautiful teeth she had ever seen.

He came straight to her and took both her hands, just as David had done so long ago. Was it a characteristic of these men? she wondered.

"Jude, you didn't warn me," he reproached her in a voice that was even softer and more slurred than Aubrey's.

Judith said calmly, "No, but I warned her."

He whirled on her in consternation. "The hell you did! What did you tell her?"

"That your intentions are strictly dishonorable."

He scowled at her and then smiled disarmingly at Emily. "The truth isn't in her," he said sweetly. "She's repeating vicious gossip."

Gus appeared with cocktails and Dan looked pained. "Do I have to drink those damn' things?"

"Do you ever?" Aubrey asked calmly. He turned to Gus. "Bring the whiskey."

Dan's face cleared. "I thought maybe you expected me to be on my good behavior."

Judith said impudently, "I didn't know you had one," and Dan Raynor turned appealingly to Emily.

"You see? And I did want you to love me!"

She laughed. Dan was a very definite Southern type, and one with which she had had very little experience: a type that lived hard, drank hard, and loved easily and briefly.

"I'll try not to let them prejudice me."

Dinner was a gay and noisy affair. The conversation was reminiscent of Carrollton, and dealt with topics that were entirely foreign to her experience. Dove shoots, fox-hunts, the impending field trials.

Aubrey was entering a young dog in the trials; an English setter that was descended from a very fine dog of David's. The three of them discussed the dog technically and at length.

"Who's handling him for you?" Dan asked.

"Ed Parrish. He can get more out of a dog than anybody in the game."

Dan nodded. "Much competition this year?"

"If all the dogs that have been nominated are started there'll be plenty," Aubrey admitted. "But of course in a Derby it's hard to tell. Everett from Philadelphia is bringing his string, and so is Hudson. I haven't heard from the others."

Dan turned to Emily. "Ever seen a national field trial?"

"Neither a national nor any other kind," she confessed.

"You'll enjoy it. I'm putting in my bid now to take you."

She hesitated. "That's over a month away, isn't it? I won't be here that long, I'm afraid."

Judith frowned. "Don't be silly. Who says you won't?"

Emily smiled at her, and knowing Judith's determination decided not to argue it then

"And in the meantime," Dan went on, "I think we'd better have a fox-hunt. Ladies don't fox-hunt down here, but Jude's not a lady, thank God. And we can corral one or two others like her. What about Saturday night?"

JUDITH laughed. "No grass under your feet, is there, Daniel?" Her glance flicked Emily for an instant, tenderly. "Emily's been ill, and I'm afraid she won't be equal to anything so strenuous for at least two weeks. But we'll have it later."

"Tell me about fox-hunts," Emily said. "I'm not sure I'd ever be equal to one."

"Oh, there's none of the fence and hedgerow stuff they have in merrie England," he reassured her. "We go out to my cabin for supper and get started about three in the morning. The big coon and the red fox walk just before day."

"And what do you do in the meantime?" she asked curiously.

"The low-lifes play poker, and the others sleep around the fire."

"And there's a quaint old southern custom," Aubrey put in, "that the first person awake gets to kick coals in everybody else's face."

"Then I can't go," Emily said firmly. "I sleep too soundly."

Dan chuckled. "Don't you worry, honey."

Emily looked so dubious that the three of them laughed heartily at her apprehension.

They played bridge after dinner: duplicate contract at a tenth of a cent. Emily was uneasy; she sensed that their bridge would be a very different game from that of the Elston younger set.

"I'll be your partner," she told Dan, "if you'll let me pay my own losses. Because I'm pretty sure I'll throw you."

He merely looked at her; the most reproving and reproachful look she had ever seen. Under his unwavering eyes she felt herself flushing, slowly and hotly. He turned appealingly to Judith.

"Make her stop! I'll kiss her here and now if you don't."

Judith was sorting the duplicate boards. "I guess we can stand it if she can," she told him calmly.

Emily laughed helplessly. "All right. But you may lose your shirt." The argot of Morton Hall, she realized as she spoke, was insidious and contagious.

Dan was arranging pillows in her chair. "It wouldn't be the first time, sugar."

She had guessed right about the bridge. They played casually, with none of the bickering that characterized so many serious games, but it was evident that they respected the game as a beautiful and intricate thing.

"If you ever find you're broke," Dan told her warmly, "just let me know and we'll do this for a living."

"Not with us, you won't," Judith assured him. "Dan, my darling, it's time for you to go home."

He rose reluctantly. "Every time I begin to enjoy myself somebody makes me go home." He looked at Emily. "How about a ride tomorrow?"

She hesitated. "I rode today for the first time in nearly two years, and I have a suspicion that I won't be equal to it."

"Then we'll wait a day or two." He turned to Judith. "This is Thursday: have dinner with me Saturday night?"

"We'd love it."

"Fine." He took Emily's hands. "I'll try to bear it until then."

Tomorrow, Judith makes plans for Emily.

WOODSTOCK.

Woodstock, Sept. 28.—The Ernest Earleys of Ohayo mountain have closed their home and left for a winter in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Yashuo Kinuyoshi have returned from a trip to Mexico.

Miss Byrd, a cousin of Admiral Byrd, visited in Woodstock Wednesday in company of Mrs. N. Schneider Both are in Red Hook for a few weeks.

Esther Ault, a summer visitor, has returned to New York for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Henri Michaux have returned from an interesting motor trip in Europe. Most of their time has been spent in France

The flag stone terrace in front of LaMonte Simpkin's Little Art Shop is nearly completed.

Walks are being laid out again now that the cutting is completed through the village. The flag stone fronting the Elwyn property next to Firemen's Hall, is a particularly good stretch.

The Democratic caucus will be held on Monday at the M. E. Hall at 8 o'clock for the purpose of designating candidates for the various town offices, including supervisor, two justices of the peace, two assessors, town clerk, superintendent of highways and collector. Only members enrolled in the party may vote.

Astronomy Ancient

The study of astronomy was ancient in the time of Confucius. More than 4,000 years ago the Emperor Tse of China ordered the death of the official astronomers Hsi and Ho for neglecting to perform the rites customary during an eclipse of the sun. Records dating from the reign of Kaiser of Akkad in Babylon (3900 B. C.) imply that even then the varying aspects of the sky had been under expert observation.

Memorial Tribute to Dr. Mary Gage-Day Published by Brothers

A "Memorial Tribute" to the late Dr. Mary Gage-Day, who was for 38 years an honored resident and practicing physician in Kingston, beloved by a wide circle of friends and those to whom she had ministered, has been compiled and published by her brothers, Simon Henry Gage of Ithaca and Asa Franklin Gage of Mohawk, N. Y.

The Memorial is in the form of an attractive and neatly printed booklet of 34 pages, with cover and with a striking portrait of Dr. Day for the frontis-piece.

In addition to that considerable portion of the Memorial devoted to a biographical sketch, there are several pages in reference to Dr. Day's scientific and professional writings; also extensive quotations from a letter written by her from Offerle, Kansas, in 1886, in which the writer gave her family a graphic description of her experiences in a blizzard which swept that part of the country in which Dr Day and her husband were located, in January of that year.

The latter portion of the Memorial is given over to a reprint of articles which appeared in The Freeman announcing Dr. Day's death, her funeral, tributes from the Benedictine Hospital, the Ulster County Committee on the Prevention of Tuberculosis, the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, Ulster County Council, Girl Scouts, Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs and the Young Women's Christian Association of Kingston. There is also reprinted a letter from Dr. Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, who writes of his acquaintance with Dr. Day "back to 1905 when, in the early days of the anti-tuberculosis campaign, she was one of the first forward-looking physicians in the country to appreciate what could be done to reduce and prevent the ravages of that disease." Dr Farrand concludes, "The public owes her memory a deep and lasting debt."

On the last page appear reproductions of Dr. Day's two much prized certificates. The first is a certificate of membership in the American Red Cross, "in recognition of service faithfully performed in behalf of the nation and her men at arms." It is signed by President Woodrow Wilson, G. D. B. Hasbrouck, president of the Ulster County Chapter, and J. W. Davison, chairman of the War Council The second certifies to her membership in The Volunteer Medical Service Corps, authorized by the Council of National Defense.

Biography

The following is condensed from the biographical sketch given in the first part of the Memorial:

Mary Hannah Gage was born June 20, 1857, in the town of Worcester, Otsego county, New York. She was the seventh of nine children. The father, Henry Van Tassel Gage, traced his ancestry back to England through the Gages, and to Scotland and Holland through his mother. The mother, Lucy Ann Grover, was of English, Dutch and Welsh descent.

Her parents were farmers of the semi-pioneer time, when in New York and Pennsylvania where they lived there were still wolves and deer and the mile-long flocks of wild pigeons were still seen in the sky. The land was covered with virgin forest. Mary was born, then, in an atmosphere of pioneer courage and effectiveness, with parents who knew what it meant to depend upon themselves and to teach their children to be self-sufficient.

Mary Gage grew into forceful womanhood, with striking gifts of mind and physical perfection. District school and seminary gave her some fundamental education and this was fixed and intensified by teaching in the district schools. She had a native instinct for medicine and having been through the dreaded epidemics of diphtheria and seen so many young people stricken with typhoid and tuberculosis, these instincts were stimulated and she saw more and more clearly that her chance to aid in her day and generation lay in medicine.

Her father and mother began their married life on the Crumhorn, near Milford, in the wooded regions of New York state. She began hers in real pioneer life on the prairies of Kansas, although she lived in a sod house instead of a log house as had her parents.

There was a large irrigation project under way to draw water from the Arkansas river and to earn money for her longed-for medical education, Mary and her husband (Edgar B. Day) joined the camp of the irrigation company, he to work with his two teams and she to board some of the workmen. It was while they were there that the terrible blizzard which formed the subject of a letter to her folks at home brought tragedy and stopped the labor.

For medical preparation Mary spent one year in Cornell University, studying fundamental subjects, such as physiology, anatomy, etc. This gave her a year's advanced standing in the University of Michigan, which granted her the degree of Doctor of Medicine in 1888. Later she took advantage of courses in the Post-graduate Medical School and Hospital in New York city. For internship she served as physician at the Michigan State Institution for Dependent Children at Coldwater. After the internship in Coldwater Dr. Day went back to Kansas, where she practiced for six years on the prairies and in the city of Wichita. She then came to Kingston for the place in which to do the rest of her life work as a physician (1897-1935).

When she first came to Kingston Dr. Day had a modest office and living rooms on Fair street. While there she was stricken with typhoid fever and ever afterward she held a feeling of gratitude to Dr Henry Van Hoesen who helped her through the distressing experience.

Later Dr Day bought the house and lot at 207 Wall street, corner of Maiden Lane and Wall, which became a rallying point for many in distress and for friends in their happiness.

Dr. Day welcomed with enthusiasm the new knowledge that came with regard to typhoid, diphtheria and infectious diseases in general Early in her practice she took an interest in the fight against tuberculosis and was among those whose efforts were responsible for the establishment in 1910 of a tuberculosis hospital in Ulster county—the first permanent county hospital for the tuberculous in New York state.

Later, when Camp Happyland, for undernourished children, was established on the site of this hospital (following the building of the present hospital), Dr. Day put her heart and soul into this work and the sale of Christmas seals each year.

As a member of the medical profession Dr. Day joined in the work of the local, state and national medical societies. She served as secretary for several years and in 1925 as president of the Ulster County Medical Society.

She took an active interest in the movement to secure woman suffrage and later in local, state and national politics. She was many times named a member of the Republican State Committee. It is stated that "Dr. Mary had the same uncanny skill in diagnosing and prognosing political contests that she had in diseases; usually, if she anticipated it, there was a funeral in both cases."

In church affiliations she was at first a Baptist as were the members of her family, but "later the beauty and perhaps formality of the Episcopal Church appealed strongly to her and she joined it and remained a faithful member to the end of her life." Her biographer writes, "There was no exclusiveness in her nature, however, and she worked with and helped all churches. Some of her most devoted service as a physician was done in a Catholic institution, the Benedictine Hospital, where she was loved and trusted by the Sisters who conducted it."

From the beginning of her professional career Dr. Day was the recipient of kindness and consideration from the older physicians in the community which she served. As the years went on she repaid these kindnesses by giving encouragement to her young colleagues as they came to fill the vacancies that time made in the ranks of the profession. In this connection her biographer says, "One of the newcomers, Dr. Mark O'Meara, destined to become a member and finally head of the staff in the Benedictine Hospital, combined the wisdom of the born and trained physician with the skill and judgment of a great surgeon. She worked with him most closely for the last 25 years of her life. They lived on opposite sides of the street for many years and between his young family and her there grew up the precious friendship so mutually helpful. The children had two homes and they brought blessing to both."

Dr. Day's helpfulness and skill were always available to the members of her own family, to her brothers and sisters, or their children and they always felt safer if she were at hand to help in times of stress. She was her father's favorite and when her parents grew old and her father partly helpless there was no one who could so surely soften the distress as his. "Little Mary." This understanding between father and daughter was mutual and Mary asked that when the final sleep of death should come to her her mortal remains should be placed beside those of her father in the beautiful cemetery at Worcester, N. Y. After her death in Florida on March 7, as the result of an automobile accident, those who were left carried out that wish on March 12, 1935.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—Aside from their personal staffs no one has a better opportunity to observe and study members of congress at close range than does that group of men known as the official reporters of debates.

There are six in each house and all are veterans. In the senate, for example, Daniel B. Lloyd has a record of more than 50 years of service. James W. Murphy more than 30, Percy E. Budlong more than 20, and John Rhodes and Jim Wick more than 10 each.

Their fund of information concerning senators and representatives and their oratorical habits is limitless.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, for instance, never has asked for a transcript of his speeches for revision before they appear in the Congressional Record.

"You boys make a better speech for me than I really make myself," he once told them.

Correct Congressmen

THAT'S a very important part of their job, too. While some might assume a man elected to congress has a good command of English, the reporters never take it for granted. They exercise the greatest care to make sure that however faulty in other respects a member's speech might be, at least in the Record it is grammatically correct.

Thus recently when a senator, in defending a colleague, became highly excited and roared: "I approve of what he done and why he done it," he suffered no embarrassment when he read his remarks. The reporters had seen to that.

Sometimes diplomacy must be used. A member of the house in a speech once said: "That happened to he and I." The reporter changed it to read: "That happened to him and to me." But when the representative read his speech later and noted the change, he put it back to "He and I"

But the reporter had the last chance at the transcript. Before the speech went to the printer, it finally was corrected to read: "He and I had that happen to us."

The correct word must be used whether the speaker uttered it or not. Once a senator picked up a law book while speaking and said: "I direct the attention of senators to this case." The reporter changed the word "direct" to "invite."

His reason was that no senator can direct another senator, but he can invite his attention.

Johnson Is Favorite

ACCORDING to senate reporters, Hiram Johnson of California, Joe Robinson of Arkansas, Henry Ashurst of Arizona and William King of Utah have the best speaking voices from the standpoint of their ability to catch every word.

Of these, Jim Wick picks Hiram Johnson as his favorite. He thinks the California senator is the steadiest talker he ever reported. His flow of words per minute is just about as uniform as humanly possible.

The Guilty One

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"I BEG you, my friends," said Willy Nilly, "to listen to me."

The people stopped complaining for a moment to hear what the little man with the pointed, sticking-out ears had to say. What a strange little man he was to be able to understand the language of all animals and to have them all understand him. And what an odd collection were with him.

"I believe I know what happened. The hose was put in the big barrel of water just back of this tent."

"Then why did you let your ducks soak us like this?" the people began to murmur angrily.

"It was a prank," said Willy Nilly.

"A pretty prank, indeed," said the people. "That's a fine thing to say. To let us get soaked and then say a prank has been played. Well, well, well, that is nerve indeed!" So the complaints were made.

"Who dropped the hose into the barrel of water?" shouted one man.

"That is what I am going to tell you," said Willy Nilly. "We came here to perform for the owner of this side-show. We hoped to make money for him and for ourselves and to give all of you your money's worth."

"Why all this talk without doing anything for us?" shouted one of the audience.

"It's only through talk that I can explain," said Willy Nilly.

"Run him out! He's crazy," some of the people shouted. "He's the guilty one and it's all because he's crazy. He looks odd enough with his goat-like ears and his queer friends."

And the cry went up: "He's crazy! Run him out!"

Laying Foundations

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

The study of Latin sometimes suggests forgotten meanings of English words—words which have often become so common-place that their sense has in the course of time and practice been reversed.

Such a word is "education." It meant once "to lead out," but anyone watching the average teaching methods of today would suppose that it meant "to stuff in." Even the most so-called "advanced" methods have failed to restore its original meaning but have substituted "self-determination."

Education presupposes a leader. It should not be a haphazard gleaning of what suits the child's fancy and native ability, nor should it consist of stuffing the youngster full of the arbitrary facts and accomplishments which are generally supposed necessary for culture or self support.

It is not a case of forcibly bending a twig the way it should go, or of allowing it to follow its own bent and grow lopsided. Education lies between the two—in making allowance for natural tendencies, but tempting the child by rousing his curiosity to branch out in all directions—leading him on to full development

This rousing his curiosity should begin very early—almost at birth. Parents are apt to think that until the child can walk and talk he needs nothing but food and bodily comfort.

When the starts school is pretty late to begin to rouse his interest in learning He probably will keep up with his class and may get through school and college very creditably, but he is not apt to develop a broad interest in culture and the arts. These interests must be stimulated and encouraged to develop in the preschool days This nursery preparation is the parents' responsibility and makes a foundation for the school to build on.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Barnes has at last found peace at the plantation home of her college roommate, Judith. Judith's brother, David Carroll, was Emily's first love; now he is in Turkey, and Emily is divorcing Edwin Barnes, her husband. Meanwhile there is much to do, including the attentions of Dan Rayner, neighborhood flirt. And Judith has cabled David that the old Carroll plantation, lost to the family some years before, is again on the market.

Chapter 40

DARK FUTURE

HALF an hour later Judith, clad in vivid pajamas and a pair of scarlet mules, was sitting Turkish fashion at the foot of Emily's bed. One of the most refreshing of Judith's traits, Emily remembered, was this disregard for conventional hours; this unwillingness to relinquish one day until another had arrived.

It was a family trait, Emily knew, thinking of the days at Carrollton and the poker game on the living-room floor. She settled herself luxuriously under the down comforter and waited.

"Well," Judith demanded, "what did you think of him?"

"He's attractive," Emily admitted. "And what is much more dangerous, he makes you feel attractive too. But he's not for the likes of me!"

"Well, anyhow," Judith insisted, "there's no hurry. I'm afraid there'll be plenty of time for a business course before the slack in employment is taken up, and in the meantime you need to play. Do you realize, darling, that you've never played in your life?"

"Only too well."

"And do you realize that having you here is the nicest thing that has happened to me since Davey was born? It sounds improbable, but I do get lonesome, and the biggest favor you could do me would be to stay at least three months."

Emily felt her eyes misting. She leaned forward impulsively and kissed Judith's beautiful, impudent mouth. "I hope some day I can do half as much for you."

Judith uncurled herself and rose. "You'll do it just by staying." She patted Emily's cheek. "Now go to sleep and let tomorrow take care of itself. And reconcile yourself gracefully to three months of this life; after that you can think about what to do next."

She opened the bedroom windows, tucked Emily warmly in, and went out, the scarlet mules clicking as she walked.

DAN RAYNOR'S house, Emily discovered two nights later, was

"Well," Judith demanded, "what did you think of him?"

I've had my share of problems for a while."

Judith nodded, relieved. The cable had gone to David this morning and she was counting minutes until the answer came.

"I know that. He's a graceless devil; but I thought he'd do to play around with. Of course there are a few others, and I want you to meet the countryside, but it's convenient to have someone to fall back on when there's nothing else doing."

Emily twinkled at her. "You sound as if I were spending the winter here."

"You are."

She shook her head regretfully. "You're an angel. But I can't."

"Why not?" Judith went straight to the heart of the matter. "What would you do back in Elston?"

That was a question that had followed her like a shadow since the moment she arrived. What would she do?

"I DON'T know," she confessed. "I've been trying to decide. I won't stay there and dry up," she said with quiet bitterness. "Elston—all the Elstons in the world—are full of good women, even attractive women, who ought to have married and have never had a chance.

"They spoil their nieces and nephews, and read sappy love stories, and belong to church circles. And occasionally one of them goes quietly mad from repression, or turns the town over by marrying a soda-jerker fifteen years younger than she is."

Judith's eyes were dark with horror. "My God! Is it as bad as that?"

"It's worse." She went on thoughtfully. "There's not a chance of finding a job anywhere now; but I've considered using what money I have to take a business course so that I'll be fitted to do something when things do improve."

Judith shook her head. "You oughtn't to be in business. You ought to be married."

"Most women ought," she admitted with a rueful laugh, "but you can't achieve it successfully in a place like Elston. And you can't very well go to a city and put an ad in the paper, or hang out a sign. You've got to do something in the meantime."

not another classic example of Early Colonial; it was merely a house, big and rambling and badly in need of paint.

Except for an occasional fine piece of furniture and the Sully portrait in the hall the interior gave no indication of past glories in the Rayner history.

The living-room suggested the lounge of a men's club rather than a private home. It was almost crudely furnished: deep, cushioned chairs, a stone fireplace holding enormous logs, a fine pair of antlers above the mantel, a collection of old guns on the mantelshelf.

After the inevitable drinks dinner was served on a small table before the living-room fire.

"That dining-room gets under my skin," Dan explained. "It's so big and gloomy that it takes at least a dozen people to subdue the darn' thing. And with the present price of cotton, Lord knows when I'll be able to have it done over."

Emily glanced at the dinner, which was a typical man's meal: beef filets with mushrooms, souffle potatoes, Roquefort and coffee.

"I could eat food like this from the kitchen floor."

"Dan always feeds you well," Judith explained with her mouth full. "It's his best trait."

Dan looked injured. "You're an unflattering wench. As if I didn't have a lot of good traits."

Judith considered. "Yes—I suppose you have. You're kind to animals, and loyal to your friends—"

"And I've never welshed a bet—"

Emily laughed. "You sound as if you were writing an epitaph!"

"If they don't stop chattering and finish that steak before it gets cold," Aubrey growled, "they will be."

Everyone laughed, and the dinner went gaily on. Over the liqueurs which concluded the meal Judith signed heavily.

"You'll have to remove the table from around me. I couldn't get up if I had to."

Aubrey grasped the back of her chair and tilted it almost to the floor with a quick jerk. She ... [illegible] ... with a stage groan.

OFFICE CAT

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

Even in these callous selfish days, a local man suggests that there is no man so heartless as not to think occasionally of the poor sap who bought the car from him.

Roads

You wonder where all the roads go that are seen the country through;
Some go winding by the river, others
climb the hilltop blue,
One meanders through a meadow,
some go gaily through the town;
This one smooth and that one rocky,
some go up and some go down;
This is tree-lined that one barren,
some are gravel, others stone—
But you'll find that every highway winds at last to someone's home.

Friend—So you finally consented to teach your wife to drive?

Man—Yes. I need a new car anyway.

Advice to Motorists: "Be tolerant to the pedestrian. He has his faults but they are not crimes punishable by death."

Herman—Jasper used to have a car that cost $3,000.

Jerry—What kind of a car does he use now?

Automobile tragedies in the main are caused by three weaknesses on the part of automobile and truck drivers. These are

1—Speed.
2—Carelessness.
3—Lack of consideration of others

If you still think you have a good automobile, try to trade it in on a new one and listen to what they tell you.

Lady Car Driver — Gentlemen, could you tell me please how to make an anti-freeze in this cold weather?

Garage Man—I can, lady. Just put your aunty in the rumble seat.

Somehow or other a vice president always reminds us of a fellow taking the trip in a rumble seat alone.

Mrs. Jerry—So your son is coming home from prison, is he? I thought he was sent up for seven years?

Mrs. Perry—He was—but they let him off after serving five years for his good behavior.

Mrs. Jerry—What a comfort it must be to have such a good son.

Prayer by an advertising man's child: "Give us this day our daily Golden Crest, slo-Baked, whole wheat bread."

Laura—Why aren't you going to the dance tonight?

Lucile—I've got a slight cold.

Laura—But you could wrap up well and keep warm.

Lucile—No. I'm afraid that new bargain dress I bought would fall to pieces if I happened to sneeze in it.

The objection to some men in business is that they spend so much time in objecting.

Man—I heard that the prisoners in the state prison have petitioned the state authorities to have all the radio sets taken out.

Friend—Why was that?

Man—They claimed that having to listen to those crooners came under the head of cruel and unusual punishment and was forbidden by the penal code.

The bonds of matrimony aren't worth much, either, if the interest isn't kept up.

Hammond—Why does Mrs. Meekly continue to live with her husband when he beats her so much?

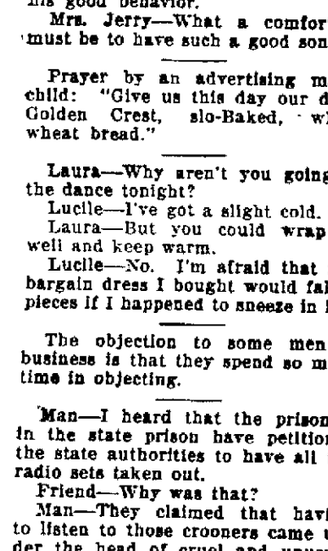

Friend—She wants a divorce, and her lawyer has advised her to get as many beatings to her credit as possible before going to court.

A politician is a man who stands for what he thinks others will fall for.

Fat Lady—I'm putting on weight, doctor. What shall I do?

Doctor—Regular exercise. Push yourself away from the table three times a day.

"Now, Puff," says the monkey, "it's true, that I'm bright.
But that's not enough—I must be ERUDITE!"
"Oh, stop!" Puffy cries. "Though my mind is quite keen.
I don't even know what those great big words MEAN."

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Simple Tattoo Is Poultry Aid

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 28.—It's going to be tough on chicken thieves when the new tattooing system, now underway in New York state, becomes firmly established. The tattooing leaves a life-time mark and easily identifies the poultry.

Rapid progress is reported in spreading the system throughout the Empire State, as nearly 2,000 farms since July 1 have adopted the branding idea.

"Thieves Beware! Poultry and Stock are Marked and Registered with New York State Police and County Sheriffs." Flare letters proclaim this on signs that have already been tacked on posts, barns, and poultry houses. With the sign each poultryman gets a tattoo marker which has little needles in the shape of letters and symbols.

As each bird is branded, these little needles prick the skin of the under side of the wing web, leaving the brand on the skin. Purple ink is rubbed in, and where the skin has been broken by the brand, purple spots are retained for life.

Like Cattle Brands.

Each poultryman has a different brand, such as W2W or A2X. Each brand and the poultryman who gets it are registered with the New York state police in Albany and in all barracks and outposts; with the sheriff in the county and sheriffs in all surrounding counties; with state police and sheriffs in surrounding states; and with all poultry buyers who ask for the registration service.

It is estimated that the vice of chicken stealing costs New York state poultrymen thousands of dollars each year. New York state police are said to be enthusiastic about the program because it helps them to identify stolen poultry, and to catch, and to convict the thief. All too often, it is pointed out, after the thief has been caught and brought to trial, he has been allowed to go scot-free because the owner of the chickens could not conclusively establish ownership before a court. A brand on the wing, registered with the owner's name, is evidence that can not be disputed.

The idea of tatooing to discourage chicken thievery has the endorsement of the poultry department at the New York State College of Agriculture, of the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Association, of the New York State Farm Bureaus, and of state and local police.

Help of the division of markets and of the police in New York city is also being solicited, so they, too, may identify any poultry that arrives under suspicious circumstances. Cooperation has also been undertaken with the state department of agriculture and markets for similar attention in all cities in New York state.

The tattooing program is now reported as operating in fifteen counties in the Empire State, and work in other counties is being started.

Relief Incident.

Spokane, Wash.—Lee Wam Ryon, 69, who had been on relief "ever since relief started" was $354 richer today because there had been a delay in getting his old age pension started.

Officials had to write to La Plata, Mo., to verify Ryon's age and the correspondence developed the money was left him by two brothers who had died.

Troubles Never Come Singly

Kansas City—"Having trouble?" a negro helpfully inquired of Homer L. Todd, who had parked to repair his motor car lights. Todd said "yes."

"Well, here's some more," the negro went on, producing a pistol and taking Todd's $11.

It's the Climate

Chicago—The Rev. Edmund L. Souder, Episcopal missionary, was discussing habits and customs in the Orient before a church group.

"The Filipino flapper," he said, "bases her style largely on the amount of clothes she can don, while the American girl seems to see how little she can wear."

ANVIL CARRIED TO SCALES HAS WEIGHT STAMPED ON

West Point, Neb. (AP)—It seems there was an anvil.

"It weighs 100 pounds," said R M. Kildee, instructor at Smith-Hughes agricultural school here.

"I'll bet it doesn't weigh more than 75," said Warren Simonson, carpenter.

Simonson thereupon carried the anvil from the school basement to the third floor, where scales were reported. It turned out they were on the first floor. The anvil was toted downstairs.

It was weighed. The scales registered 96 pounds.

After returning the anvil to the basement, Simonson sat down to catch his breath. On one side of the anvil he read: "96 pounds."

Graceful New Speed Lines Distinguishes Buick's Hood

HERE IS shown the distinctive front end of the new Buicks for 1936. The speedline motive of parallel lines is carried out throughout the design of the car. Contributing much to the beauty of design, it symbolizes the exceptional performance of which these cars are capable.

NEWS OF

The World

ON WHEELS

Four new lines of automobiles, the result of two years of preparation involving complete redesign of the product and sweeping changes in manufacturing facilities, are announced by the Buick Motor Company, and models are on display today at the Kingston Buick Co. salesrooms, Clinton avenue and Main street.

Styled and engineered to meet every requirement of the modern motorist, the new Buicks have exceptional speed, maneuverability and economy; unusually attractive style treatment, and rugged construction that provides characteristic dependability in a group of cars that will be noted for their flashing performance.

Buick for 1936 offers a standard production car in the $1,000 field having the qualifications of a specially built racing automobile. At the same time, the company offers three other lines ranging from the low medium through the medium price brackets.

Two straight eight valve-in-head engines of Buick design, developing 93 and 120 horsepower, are the power plants for the four lines of cars. Among other features are new streamlined styling with a speed motif throughout, solid steel "Turret Top" Fisher bodies, slanting Vee-type windshields, anodized alloy pistons of light weight and the hardness of cast iron, sealed chassis, improved independent front wheel suspension and hydraulic brakes. Prices are lower for all models.

The four series of cars ranging upward in wheelbase, weight and price class, are the Buick Special, the Buick Century, the Roadmaster and the Limited. Natural designations of the four groups are the Series 40, Series 60, Series 80 and Series 90 respectively.

The Buick Series 40 Special is a 118-inch wheelbase car powered by a 93-horsepower straight eight engine of valve-in-head design. Somewhat heavier than last year's lowest priced Buick, it duplicates the exceptional performance of that car. Top speed is 85 miles an hour.

The Buick Century is powered by a 120-horsepower, valve-in-head straight eight engine mounted on a 122-inch wheelbase chassis. Average top speed of the Century under proving ground tests is 95 miles an hour.

The Roadmaster Series includes two six-passenger body types mounted on a 131-inch chassis. Likewise powered by a 120-horsepower engine it has a top speed of 90 miles an hour with equivalent performance throughout the driving ranges.

Buick Limited models are built on a 138-inch wheelbase chassis, and are designed to accommodate six and eight passengers. Top speed of the Limited series is 87 miles an hour.

A total of 14 body types are listed for the four lines of cars.

Speed is the motif followed throughout the new Buick styling. Radiators are high and wedge-shaped with die-cast chromium grilles. Fenders, entirely new in design, are speedlined and attached to a flat running board. The long hoods are carried forward to meet the grille at which point is mounted an attractive moderntistic radiator ornament.

Hydraulic brakes are standard on all Buick models for 1936 with an advanced brake design combining with hydraulic actuation. Because hydraulic brakes deliver equal pressure to all four wheels, it was necessary to engineer the correct combination of brake shoes, brake linings, brake drums, master cylinders and brake cylinders to give positive control with soft pedal action and long life. Brake shoes in the new Buick design are extra heavy and rigid to prevent distortion, linings were carefully selected and tested for long life and uniform brake action and drums are rigidly reinforced to keep their roundness. On all series the drums have cast iron braking surfaces. Centrifuse drums are used on the special series cars and all-cast-iron drums on the Century, Roadmaster and Limited series.

The local Buick organization invites the general public to inspect the new cars now on display.

New Packard cars, announcement of which is being made today by the Stuyvesant Sales on Clinton avenue, consist of four different "lines." They are the One Twenty, which was brought out this year as a completely new Packard in the $1,000 price field; the Packard Eight, Super Eight and Twelve. All lines retain the distinctive Packard appearance. Power plants of the four different models are eight cylinder in line and 12 cylinder engines. The One Twenty, so called because of its 120-inch wheel base, has been given added power through increasing the stroke to 4¼ inches. It now produces 120 horse power. Increased acceleration is claimed as a result. A further smoothness of engine operation and increased economy of both gasoline and oil is also said to have resulted from the larger engine and a lower gear ratio which the greater power made possible. This is brought about by the fact that the engine operates at 315 fewer revolutions per mile of car travel. The new One Twenty has the Packard exclusive Safe-T-flex independent front wheel suspension which is unchanged except for softer springs and improved shock absorber adjustments given even greater comfort in riding. Powerful hydraulic brakes are provided and there is a soft action semi-centrifugal clutch which requires very little foot effort for operation. Interiors of all seven body models of the One Twenty have been made considerably brighter and more attractive with a new treatment of the window mouldings and instrument board, as well as new and more attractive hardware. Through an ingenious hinge arrangement designed by Packard the front doors are hinged at the front without sacrificing the long sloping lines of the door opening, at the same time added foot room for entrance and exit is provided. Added comfort is obtained with new seat cushion springs and deeper upholstery. A new upholstery treatment with 100 per cent wool broadcloth adds much to interior beauty.

Woodstock Library Trustees' Meeting

Woodstock, Sept. 28.—At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the library, a resolution was passed, thanking everyone who contributed in any way to the library fair. The board felt that, because so many people had assisted in various capacities, it would be quite impossible to thank them individually, and therefore took this means of expressing its gratitude to those whose generous cooperation made the success of the fair possible.

Mrs. Irving Brown, President of the Fair Committee, read a report upon her activities and made many valuable suggestions for next year's fair. Mrs. Brown was given a vote of thanks for her splendid work.

Reports were also turned in by Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker, president of the membership committee; Miss Isabel Doughty, president of the book committee; Mrs. W. O. Thompson, librarian, and W. S. Elwyyn, treasurer.

There was some discussion about heating the library next winter. A plan for ultimately installing a furnace was brought up and handed over to Mr. Purcell.

At a meeting of the Woodstock Gardeners held last week in the Woodstock Library, Mr. Malden, a landscape gardener, answered questions put to him by members of the association. Most of these concerned plans for winter care of gardens. Mrs. D. U. Flemming, treasurer of the association, also spoke. Mr. Cutler told the group that Mrs. Flemming has some of the finest roses he has ever seen.

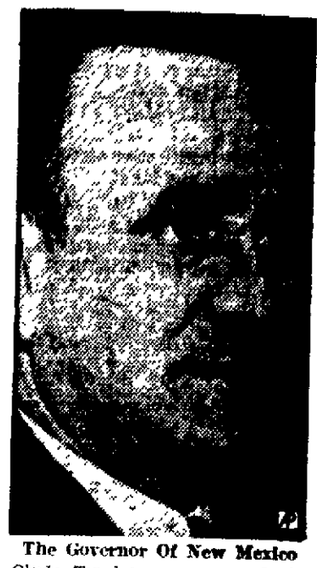

As the fall business meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society held last week in the library, Miss Elsa Kinball and Capt. William Moncure were elected as trustees to replace two who were going out of office. Miss Anita Smith, who's term also expired this year, was unanimously re-elected. Mr. Braik, Mr. Kingsbury, Mr. Purcell and Mr. Peets were appointed by the president. Mrs. Bruno Zimm, as Building Committee, to confer with the library trustees on the question of building an addition to the library for the use of the Historical Society. If the library trustees are in favor of the addition the building committee make investigations and collect material on the construction of the proposed building. Also at this meeting were re-elected unanimously the recording secretary, Mrs. Warren Hutty; Mrs. Grant Elwyn, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Victor Lasher, treasurer.

Woodstock to Vote On Central School

Woodstock, Sept. 27.—A meeting will be held on October 5 to vote on whether a Central School District shall be established. The district has been laid out by the Commissioner of Education comprising districts Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, of the Town of Woodstock, No. 7 of the Towns of Woodstock and Hurley, No. 14 of the Town of Saugerties, and No. 15 of the Towns of Woodstock and Saugerties. There are Woodstock, Zena, Wittenberg, Shady, Lake Hill, Willow, Bearsville, Daisy and High Woods. The meeting will be at the M. E. Hall between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. If the vote is in favor of the central school district a local Board of Education of five members will be elected.

"College students," says a critic, "are not history-minded." Nonsense! They can tell you, offhand, all about flag rushes, football records, baseball teams and prize fights from away back.

HIS EXCELLENCY--

The Governor Of New Mexico

Clyde Tingley, governor of New Mexico, guards his age more closely than an old maid (he's in the fifties), says "ain't", punctuates his remarks with occasional profanity and works harder than any of his employes . . . For a quarter of a century Tingley has been in politics . . . was first a political employe of Albuquerque, then councilman and then mayor term after term. . . . Tingley never forgets an enemy or friend. . . . Though childless, children are his hobby. Schools, playgrounds and parks are always foremost in his mind. . . . The former Toledo, O., machinist owns farm land in Ohio. . . . He discusses dams, hospitals, schools, state finance, relief, with a knowledge acquired from personal contact. . . . Overweight, the governor has not been in good health since his inauguration. . . . He still likes to attack enormous meals and munches between times. This summer he personally directed a hunt for four missing Illinois tourists, traveling hundreds of miles and going three nights without sleep.

Roosevelt Speaks To World on Navies

En Route with President Roosevelt to the Pacific Coast, Sept. 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt gave blunt notice to the world today that failure to renew the Naval Limitations Treaty, or their renunciation, "could change American policy" to build only to treaty strength.

This was regarded as a direct reply to published reports of an intention by Great Britain to renounce the treaties.

No official word of Great Britain's step had been received, but Mr. Roosevelt kept an eye on the situation today as he traveled to a demonstration by the United States fleet next Wednesday off San Diego, Cal.

The President's brief statement announced "the United States adheres to the Washington and London treaties" and added an intention to follow them unless "other nations exceeded the limits provided by these treaties."

Supervisors Order Probe Of Auditor

the request was denied and in place a resolution was unanimously adopted creating a committee composed of Supervisors Voss, Pine and Davis to investigate the condition and report back to the board just how the fund had been expended and what bills were now outstanding

The report of the county auditor as submitted follows:

September 27, 1935.

To the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County,
Kingston, N. Y.

Gentlemen.

Following the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors held on September 5, 1935, it was brought to my atention that a resolution was offered by the then minority members of the board which in substance directed me to file with the clerk of the board a report of the activities of my office for the past year with a statement of the unpaid bills against the county and the names of persons to whom such moneys were due I am also told that this resolution was defeated. I do not know what might have been the motive in the mind of the sponsor of the resolution although it would seem that many unpleasant inferences could be drawn from his actions Neither am I unmindful of the reasons which prompted the defeat of this resolution. Had the resolution been adopted, it would have been the first time that a request for a report of this character had ever been made of any public officer of this county. Such action is wholly without precedent despite the fact that in years previous, the then Boards of Auditors authorized the payment of county funds and issued warrants for payment of bills against the county in amounts exceeding appropriations for certain given years and more concerning which will be commented upon hereafter.

Lest it be inferred from the defeat of the resolution offered that there are facts and information which I, as County Auditor and Purchasing Agent, dislike to make public, I am taking this occasion even though not requested or required so to do, to furnish your honorable body with a report of the activities in my office from the time of its creation in the month of January, 1934. This report, you will note, is a comparative report and brings to light the improvement in the conduct of this office as compared with the conduct thereof by the County Board of Auditors.

Report of the County Board of Auditors for the Year 1930

Balance on hand Dec. 4, 1929	$ 2.97
1929 Appropriation for 1930	40,000.00
Additional Appropriation Sept. 26, 1930	6,000.00
Total	$46,002 97
Warrants Issued	48,039.86
Overdraft	$ 2,036 89

Report of the County Board of Auditors for the Year 1931

1930 Appropriation for 1931	$43,040.60
1931 Warrants Issued	42,909.52
Balance	$ 131.08
1930 Expenditures	$48,039.86
1931 Expenditures	42,909.52
Total	$90,949.38

Report of the County Board of Auditors for the Year 1932

1931 Appropriation for 1932	$43,554.43
1932 Warrants Issued	40,279 00
Balance	$ 3,275.43

Report of the County Board of Auditors for the Year 1933

1932 Appropriations for 1933	$43,280.23
1933 Warrants Issued	34,094 55
Balance	$ 9,185.65
1932 Expenditures	$40,279.00
1933 Expenditures	34,094.00
Total	$74,373.00

Although from the 1933 report, it would appear that a material saving over previous years was effected by the Board of Auditors, nevertheless, at the commencement of the year 1934, when my office was created and when I assumed office, there were unpaid bills and obligations owing by the county and contracted prior to January 1, 1934, in the sum of $9,409.90 which sum added to the total of $34,094 00 reported to have been expended in 1933 indicates an actual expenditure for that year of $43,503.90, so that the total amount expended in the years 1932 and 1933 by the county Board of Auditors under the Republican administration was $83,782.00 instead of the amount of $74,373 as reported.

It should be observed that in the year 1930, although there had been an appropriation in that year of $40,000.00, the Board of Auditors appeared before the Board of Supervisors and on September 26 an additional appropriation of $6,000.00 was then made and with that after there had been appropriated for that year the sum of $46,000.00, the Board of Auditors expended $48,039.86 and issued warrants for this amount creating an overdraft in the amount of $2,036.89.

At the time I took office in 1934, there had previously been appropriated for 1934, for expenditures for my department, $30,000.00. The books of the county Board of Auditors as of December, 1933, indicated an apparent balance in that fund $9,185.65 which together with the amount appropriated as aforesaid would make a total of $39,185.65. I have previously indicated in this communication that upon my assumption of office, I was met with unpaid obligations of the county totaling $9,409.90 which sum was required to be paid by me from the money which at first appeared to be available for 1934 expenditures. Allowing for this and after payment of the 1933 bills incurred by the Republican county Board of Auditors, I had available for 1934 expenditures the sum of $29,775.75. This money was expended in that year by me without any request for additional appropriations despite the fact that I was called upon and required to make purchases for the county and to make extraordinary repairs not at all contemplated when the appropriation was made and which in ordinary circumstances would have warranted special appropriation by this board. (To mention but a few reference is made to the re-laying of the sidewalks around the entire county court house and the John street building on John and Crown streets. Then repairs of indices in the Ulster county clerk's office. Extraordinary repairs to the roof and cornices of the county court house and jail.)

For the year 1935 there was appropriated for the use of my office the sum of $25,000.00. This sum has already been expended and bills have been incurred by my office for additional purchases and repairs in behalf of the county in the sum of $10,760 86.

It will be noted that the total amount made available to my office for the years 1934 and 1935 was $54,775 75 as compared with $90,949 38 for the years 1930 and 1931 and $83,782.90 for the years 1932 and 1933, and when there is added to the amounts so made available to me the sum of $10,760 86, being the amounts of the bills contracted, it will be seen that I have expended the total sum of $65,536.61 from the 4th of January, 1935, to date. I estimate that I will require $3,000 to meet obligations for the balance of the year all of which will total for years 1934 and 1935 the sum of $68,536.61, which sum is $15,246.29 less than was expended in the years 1932 and 1933 and $22,412.77 less than was expended in the years 1930 and 1931. All of this has been accomplished in the face of increase costs and increased and unusual demands on the part of several county departments.

It is obvious, therefore, that I would require an appropriation by this board of the sum of $13,760.86 to meet the unpaid obligations already incurred and to carry on for the balance of the year, which sum I respectfully petition this body be appropriately as promptly as possible.

The records of my office are at disposal to the members of: this board and the taxpayers of the county. I will be glad to exhibit the record of unpaid obligations to any such person requesting the same. There should be no need for me to set forth in detail in this communication all such outstanding obligations. All purchases made by my department have been upon requisition from the different county officers and departments and each purchase made is covered by such requisition.

Examination of my records will convince those interested that the office has been conducted in a proper and businesslike manner; that unusual savings have been affected in the purchase of supplies and materials and repairs as compared with the expenditures of the previous boards of auditors.

If this honorable body or any member thereof should like a comparison of prices paid for by me, as county auditor, with similar purchases made by the previous boards of county auditors, I should be pleased to submit the same upon request.

Please be assured that I will be glad to cooperate with this board in any way possible, and I remain

Respectfully yours,
RAY LE FEVRE.

Opposition to Appropriation

When the resolution of Supervisors Shults and Cullen was offered asking that $13,760.89 be transferred to the county auditor's fund Supervisor Elsworth led the attack on the proposition. He said he was not opposed to the payment of bills which the county owed but he believed the board should have knowledge of what the bills were.

"He has gone in the hole on his own admission over a period of months," said Mr. Elsworth and he stated that until the board was informed what bills were owed now he said he did not consider it proper to make additional appropriations to cover up deficiencies where the fund appropriated had been exceeded.

Supervisor George said he was surprised at that attitude when the county had been saved so much money by the county auditor's office.

Supervisor Osterhoudt stated that he had sponsored the job and had placed in nomination a man from his town who was competent to do the work of the office. He made no apologies for the man now and he said that much had been saved the taxpayers through the office. Prior to having a county auditor, three supervisors had been on the auditing committee, each received $500 a year for meeting once in a while. Now there was a county auditor on the job every day and as a result money had been saved. He said that the record of the county auditor spoke for itself. Since he had been in office the cost had been some $15,000 less than in the years 1932 and 1933 and about $22,000 less than in the years 1930 and 1931.

Supervisor Sears said that at the last meeting Mr. Elsworth had asked for a report on the status of the auditor's fund and the outstanding bills and he had one here now. The report showed that the county had been saving money.

Mr. Elsworth said that he had been informed that there were no funds in the hands of the county treasurer to pay the sum requested and that if such sum had to be paid it would have to be raised.

The resolution was then put to a vote and the request for the $13,000 by the county auditor was lost by a vote of 16 Ayes and 17 Noes.

Elsworth Asks Investigation

Then Supervisor Elsworth offered the following resolution and considerable more discussion followed:

Supervisor Elsworth offers the following:

Resolved, That Supervisors Voss, Pine and Davis be and they hereby are appointed a committee of this board, to investigate and examine all purchases, expenditures, payments, obligations, debts and claims unpaid, made and incurred by the County Auditor and Purchasing Agent, or his assistant or clerk, since the date of his report to the Board of Supervisors, filed at its annual meeting in November, 1934, and that said County Auditor and Purchasing Agent be and he hereby is directed to file with this committee, within ten days from the date of the adoption of this resolution, a full and complete detailed statement of all purchases, expenditures, payments, obligations, debts and claims unpaid, made and incurred by the said County Auditor and Purchasing Agent, together with the names and addresses of such claimants and amounts thereof and the purposes for which said obligations were incurred; and that said committee be, and they hereby are, authorized and empowered to examine the said County Auditor and Purchasing Agent, his assistant or clerk, and any person as a witness, upon the subject which they are hereinbefore empowered to investigate and examine; that said committee may require the attendance of said witnesses, and that said committee may use, inspect or examine the books, accounts, vouchers or documents in the possession and under the control of the said County Auditor and Purchasing Agent or his assistant and clerk, relating to the matters which said committee are herein empowered to investigate, and be it further

Resolved, That the chairman of this committee shall have and possess all the powers given to or imposed upon, or both, of the chairman of the Board of Supervisors in the County Law relative to this matter; and be it further

Resolved, That said committee may, by advertising, or by other means, as they may deem expedient and necessary, determine all the outstanding debts and obligations incurred by the County Auditor and Purchasing Agent and his assistant or clerk, due and unpaid and outsanding against the County of Ulster; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee prepare a report of its findings and determination relating to the matters they are herein empowered to investigate, and on or before the opening day of the annual session of this board, file said repor with the Clerk of this Board, and an original duplicate copy thereof with the County Treasurer of Ulster County; and be it further

Resolved, That a certified copy of this resolution be forthwith delivered by the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors to the said County Auditor and Purchasing Agent, and moves its adoption.

In offering the resolution he said that at the last meeting he had asked for an investigation because of rumors which were current to the effect that there were many outstanding bills past due. That request was denied by the board by a party vote.

"Now that is answered by this report which shows that in September the obligations were over $10,000 in excess of the appropriation," said Elsworth. The figures were so jumbled in the report that it was impossible to seek them out because of the fact that they were mixed up with figures of past years, fiscal and by calendar years, but he said it was admitted that the fund was $10,000 short.

"When we know where we are we will appropriate money and pay these bills" said Elsworth in asking that some report be made to the board as to the bills and to whom owed and for what purpose.

Nothing To Conceal

Supervisor Osterhoudt said that he had opposed the resolution at the last meeting but for the present one he would vote Aye as there was nothing to conceal. As an aid to the committee he said he would file then a list of the outstanding bills amounting to $10,760.86.

Supervisor George asked whether the resolution called for any extra pay for the committee and was informed it did not.

"Where would we get the money from?" asked Elsworth.

Supervisor Terwilliger remarked that the resolution provided for pretty nearly everything except the county agent being placed in the custody of the sheriff during the investigation.

Supervisor Sears said he would vote for the resolution but he thought that if such an investigation had been made in the past during other administrations the taxpayers could have been saved considerable money.

Supervisor George said he too would vote Aye with the reservation that the committee serve without pay.

Chairman Uses Gavel

Supervisor McDowell of Wawarsing asked if he might put one question. The question whether there was any politics in the move to have a committee investigate the county auditor's accounts.

Supervisor Elsworth arose and turning to Supervisor McDowell said that "there would have been no call for this resolution if you had come clean at the last meeting and—." At this point Chairman Markle dropped the gavel and the speech was cut short.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The resignation of Clarence H. Woolsey as a member of and chairman of the County TERA committee was submitted. He requested the resignation take effect immediately. The resignation was received and filed and later on resolution of Supervisor Elsworth, the resignation was accepted with regret and with a vote of appreciation of the services of Mr. Woolsey, who has served without compensation.

On motion of Supervisor Donnision of Gardiner, Fred H. Stank of Wallkill was appointed to succeed Dr. Woolsey. This choice was unanimous.

Shandaken Flood Control.

Supervisor Voss of Shandaken offered the following resolution, after presenting a petition signed by several hundred residents and property holders of the town, who reside along or adjacent to the Esopus Creek and its tributaries

Whereas, a petition signed by several hundred inhabitants and residents of the town of Shandaken addressed to the Town Board of the Town of Shandaken to the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County, has been presented to this board, requesting the Honorable Philip H. Goodwin, Congressman from the 27th Congressional District, to use his efforts and give his support to legislation for the survey and legislative action for flood control in said town.

Resolved, That this board do hereby approve of the request contained in the said petition, and be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board be and hereby is directed to transmit said petition, together with a certified copy of this resolution to the said Honorable Philip H. Goodwin, Congressman; and Moves its adoption.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

A communication was received from the WPA asking that quarters be provided for offices. The letter stated that 2,500 square feet of space would be required. The request was by A. F. Halloran, supervising engineer. No action was taken. The communication wac received and filed

Helen Cadwell sent a communication stating that there was a large delinquent tax bill against her property for the years 1931-1934, amounting to some $3,235.51, and stating that if the penalties would be withdrawn she would be able to pay the tax. The letter stated there was about 500 acres of which but 60 was tillable. The communication was referred to the county attorney.

Two applicatilons for aid from blind persons was acted on. One in Rosendale requested an increase from $10 to $18 a month and the other asked for a $16 grant to a person in Accord. Both were granted.

Want Road Constructed.

A petition signed by over 60 owners of property along the Ohayo mountain road which runs from the Ashokan boulevard at Glenford Church to Woodstock was received, asking that work be commenced on the construction of the road as a county route. The letter stated the road had been approved and added to the county map some time ago but no work had been done and that at present the road was in bad condition. There is 1.3 miles in Woodstock and 2 miles in Hurley. The petition was received and filed. Supervisor Cashdollar of Woodstock stated that this road was a much traveled route and used by a large number of people and requested that the road be taken up for construction as soon as possible.

Supervisor George of Denning offered a resolution sponsored by Supervisors Davis, Hulsair and George asking that the sum of $5,000 be appropriated from the county road fund for construction on the Mt-Tremper-Wittenberg road in Shandaken and Woodstock. The resolution called for an expenditure of $2,500 in each town on what is known as 91-A and 91-B county road. The supervisor recited that there was an unexpended balance of $9,413.28 in the county road fund from which the fund could be transferred.

The appropriation of $2,500 at this time of the year was opposed by Supervisor Voss on the grounds that it would be of no benefit now. He said that he could not see where that small sum would be of any value. Supervisor Cashdollar also stated the same opinion and said that if the sum of $2,500 could be appropriated in his town for maintenance work on the road some thing could be done of benefit to the people, but the small amount was of no use as a construction fund.

Election Hocus-Pocus.

Supervisor Elsworth of Esopus was given permission to speak and said:

"This is one of the oldest pieces of hocus-pocus I have seen. Why is the supervisor from Denning so anxious and so much interested in this road a month or so before election? Not so long ago it was voted down, a program of road construction which had this identical road on and anyhow where does that figure of the balance on hand come from, some official figure?" inquired Mr. Elsworth. He continued to say that the road would have been taken care of by an adequate appropriation in the program of construction advanced by the Republican members of the board and voted down by the Democrats. In their program, he said, it was not important enough to receive any appropriation but now they come on with a plan to appropriate $2,500 in each of the two towns after their "smart political program has been adopted." Continuing he said Shawangunk, Rosendale and Denning knew just how political the program had been as advanced by the Democratic sponsers, and also Supervisor Williams and the supervisor from Marlborough. That program he attacked and said those who made it up knew no more about it than "the man in the moon."

Quotes Assistant Commissioner.

Turning to a letter which he held, he read a portion which in part said: "We note, however, in approving the projects in group (b) at a total cost of $188,966.78, that two projects on which work has previously been performed, No. 10 and No. 46, are not included therein. Project No. 10, known as the Shenewater Road, has received at least three previous allotments aggregating $61,400. Project 46, known as the Wittenberg-Mt. Tremper road, has received two previous allotments of 320-b funds aggregating $20,250. We feel that these two projects should be progressed this year in conformity with the past and present policy of this department. Having in mind the policy of this department, we desire that you examine these projects and inform us as to what should be done therewith."

Mr. Elsworth said the letter he was reading from was a copy of a letter from Assistant Commissioner Lawton of the State Department of Public Works, Highway Division, to J. S Bixby, District Engineer at Poughkeepsie. He asked why this road had not been put on before. As to the alleged balance in the road fund he asked where the figures came from and he stated that instead of a balance there was now a deficit of about $3,000. He classified the request for an appropriation now for the Wittenberg-Mt. Tremper road as a "niggerly appropriation now before election." This he said was comparable to the plan last year just before election of appropriating $25,000 to "seal the roads" of the county. He said he would like to see the road in question built but with an adequate appropriation.

Supervisor George arose and said that "as a political speech" Mr. Elsworth had done well, in fact he had no equal and he asked why the Republicans held up the county road program a couple of months and whether they were thinking of the coming election.

Supervisor Cashdollar said he had asked for $5,000 for his part of the road in question last year. He was given $7,000 for his town and he asked that $5,000 be spent on the Wittenberg-Mt. Tremper road and $2,000 on the Zena road but instead the whole $7,000 was allocated to the Zena road. He asked what $2,500 would do on the road in his town now.

Supervisor Ross Osterhoudt said he had voted against the Republican road program because it had not given his town a fair deal. It provided for $9,000 for three roads and under the Democratic plan he was to get $14,000 and so he supported that plan because he got more.

Supervisor Terwilliger said that it once happened that under a Republican administration that his town got none.

Amusing To Sears.

The talk of politics Supervior Sears said was amusing to him because you did not have to go back very far to see how they rode ruthlessly over the towns who were represented by Democratic supervisors. His town he said had contributed $40,000 to the highway fund and they got in return not a nickle. Once the Democrats called attention to the fact that no money had been allocated their towns and at that time Mr. Elsworth was chairman of the board and he replied that his town was getting no money for roads but later Mr. Sears said maintenance money was allocated for Esopus. He asked why the program which was a fair one had not been approved by the state department. He asked whether they were waiting for election. It was important to get the men at work. Perhaps he said they were waiting for the time when they could give road jobs to men who promised to vote a Republican ticket. It was time to raise up against this sort of thing he said.

Supervisor Van Norstrand said under the Republican program $9,500 had been the sum set aside for a road in his town which was of no use to the people but under the Democratic plan he got an appropriation of $12,500 to be used on a road which is used.

Supervisor George asked whether the letter from which Mr. Elsworth quoted was on file with the board. Deputy Clerk Bott said no copy was on file. The figures as to the balance on hand in the county road fund Mr. George said came from the county treasurer.

Mr. Elsworth replied that the letter had no place with the board as it was a copy of a letter between the highway departments. Mr. Elsworth said he questioned the sincerity of Mr. Sears. For a long time Mr. Sears he said had been advocating the construction of roads by contract. He had advocated this plan up and down the county but now in the board of supervisors he had not advanced any such idea but had voted with the Democratic members.

Supervisors Williams said that perhaps Mr. Sears had been over-ruled in his opinion as to whether county roads shoulds be built under contract.

"Well he must be easily overruled," remarked Elsworth.

Mr. Sears arose to protect his contention. He said that due to the inexcusable amounts expended by the county in the past under Republican guidance he was opposed to that method of constructing roads and did advocate contract work. However, he had learned that a county superintendent could make things so unpleasant for any contractor he so chose to pick out that discredit and ruin could be brought upon a contractor However, he still believed that contract work was the only thing.

Supervisor Osterhoudt asked whether the balance spoken of by Mr. George was prior to the making of the 1935 highway program and whether there really was a deficit.

Deputy County Treasurer McEntee stated that the balance referred to was prior to the adoption of the 1935 program and that it was impossible to tell just where the fund stood as anticipated revenues were figured in and some of this revenue was not received until late in the year

Supervisor Terwilliger asked if the appropriation asked for the Wittenberg-Mt. Tremper road was granted if that would release the rest of the highway program. He said he so understood. This was denied by Mr. Elsworth who said the supervisor from Shawangunk had misunderstood.

Supervisor Heitzman said if the two supervisors concerned did not believe the appropriation was of any benefit why vote it. Supervisor Stanbrough said the better plan was to give them a sufficient fund to fix the roads. The resolution was lost.

Federal Aid For Bridges

A resolution by Supervisors George, Hulsair and Davis was carried whereby federal aid was authorized requested for the construction of eleven bridges in the county. The resolution stated that since the estimated cost was considerable and there was a possibility that the bridges could be built as WPA projects that the county superintendent prepare plans and estimates so that at some coming meeting the board might make appropriations and file requests for federal aid in the construction. The bridges named were:

Longyear bridge, Shandaken.
Bailey Bridge, Denning.
Bear Hole Bridge, Denning.
Dailey and Becker bridges in Saugerties.
Gossoo bridge and Shultis bridges in Shandaken.
Ulsterville bridge in Shawangunk.
Turnwood Bridge in Hardenbergh.
Bushkill bridge, Olive.

Unanimously adopted.

Supervisor Williams moved that the Grand street road in Lloyd be removed from the construction program and that the appropriation of $2,000 made to that road be transferred to the Black Creek road. Adopted.

Supervisors McDowell and Terwilliger offered a resolution that the road from Ellenville through Greenfield to the Sullivan county line, now a county road, be transferred to the state as a state road. This action Mr. McDowell said was because of the fact that the state was building a road from Newburgh to Ellenville by way of Walker Valley and the road mentioned in the resolution was a continuation through to the Sullivan county line and to Liberty. Adopted.

When Supervisors George, Hulsair and Davis offered a resolution that the Sundown-Montela road, 3.9 miles in Wawarsing and 2 miles in Denning be surveyed by the county superintendent in anticipation of building, Mr. Elsworth objected.

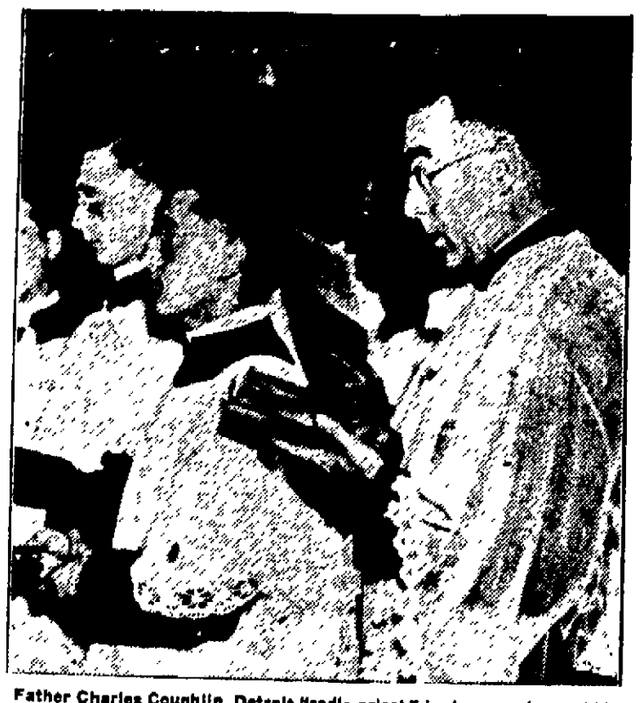

"There is a limit to this political log-rolling," he said. "There is no basis in law for this action. No fund is available and the county superintendent cannot go out and do any work until an appropriation for this preliminary work is made. I don't believe in kidding the public," concluded the supervisor from Esopus.

Mr. George objected and said there was no politics in the move. The people demanded the road built and it was being passed on to the board. Mr. George charged that there were Sullivan county men now working on the county roads in the town of Denning.

On the vote to have the survey made the resolution was lost 17 to 16.

On motion of Supervisor George, seconded by Supervisor Elsworth, the board adjourned out of respect to the memory of Matthew T. E. DeWitt, late supervisor from Hurley.

TRINITY LUTHERAN MEN'S CLUB MEETING MONDAY.

The regular monthly meeting of the Trinity Lutheran Men's Club will be held on Monday evening, September 30, at 8 o'clock. At this meeting plans will be made for the various club activities to be held during the fall and winter months. The membership of the club, which was organized a year ago, has been steadily increasing, and now consists of 42 active members. All male members of the congregation over 18 years of age are cordially invited to join, thus assuring themselves of many pleasant evenings' entertainment. The entertainment and refreshment committees have arranged a special treat for the members following the business meeting.

Listed Among the Pastors

Supervisor Cashdollar of Woodstock was being listed among the pastors Friday night. He was on hand bright and early for the meeting of the Board of Supervisors, despite the fact that the Republican town caucus in Woodstock, in which his renomination as supervisor was involved, was being held in Woodstock that same night.

Scout Workers Rallies Scheduled For Week October 1

The organization for the Ulster-Greene Council Boy Scout finance campaign is going forward rapidly.

The village of Accord reports that W. G. Schuler will be their local chairman. At Highland, Chairman Arthur B. Merritt reports the following workers signed up: Group 1—Dr. V. P. Salvatore, Charles Schmidt; Group 2—Harry Weesenaar, Earl Kisor, Irving Rathgeb; Group 3—William Denby, Dr. Carl F. Meekins, George Dean; Group 4—James R. Swift, Karl Weston; Group 5—A. Herbert Campbell, John J. Gaffney, Milo Winchester. S. B. Schwarzwaelder reports that the team for the canvass in Chichester will be composed of himself and Clinton Kahler.

The organization is practically completed in the Mountain, Northern, Western, Southern and Saugerties districts with but one more chairman to be secured in the Rondout Valley District, when 37 communities will be ready for the opening rallies the week of October 1. The schedule for district rallies, when all workers will be present, is as follows: Western District, Tuesday evening, October 1, at 7:45, in the Shandaken School; Southern District, Wednesday evening, October 2, at 7:45, in the New Paltz State Normal; Mountain District, Thursday evening, October 3, at 7:45, in the Fire Hall at Hunter; Rondout Valley District, Friday evening, October 4, at 7:45, in the Scoresby Hose House, Ellenville; Northern District, Monday evening, October 7, at 7:45, and the Saugerties District Monday evening, October 7, in Saugerties, places to be announced later.

The past summer was one of the most successful in the operation of the Ulster-Greene Boy Scout camp. Every district had boys participating in the camp and the total shows 189 for the summer in the regular camp. The number who have enjoyed weekend, over-night and troop camps also shows an increase over any previous year. The camp committee of the council plans to enlarge the facilities at Camp Half Moon and to also make some provision for an older boy camp within the next year or two. This past summer saw many more Scouts meet the requirements for Red Cross life saving tests. Due to this training through the past few years, six lives were saved this past summer by Scout trained boys. This record for one summer speaks loud for the need of such training in an area such as ours, with its many swimming places and the large number of summer visitors, many of whom are not too familiar with water sports and swimming.

FREDERICK SNYDER TO TALK TO MEN'S CLUBS

The meeting of the Men's Club of St. James M. E. Church Monday night, September 30, will be a union affair. The men of St. James will be joined on that occasion by members of the Men's Clubs of the First and Fair Street Reformed Churches and the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church.

The guest speaker of the occasion will be Frederick Snyder, well known traveler and lecturer, who will talk on "Our Views and the Hours News." Mr. Snyder's ability as an exceptionally entertaining and instructive speaker is too well known to need comment and he will undoubtedly be greeted by a large audience Monday night. Following the meeting refreshments will be served.

SWIMMING AND DIVING AT WILLIAMS LAKE SUNDAY

Although the swimming season has officially closed at Williams Lake, another stellar diving and swimming exhibition is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Binnewater beach.

Jerry Kenny, Canadian national champion, slated to compete for Canada in the Olympics next year, will be on hand to do some of his famous acrobatic dives. Walter Spence will again be on hand and a new sensation in competitive diving, John Toumi of the Brooklyn Dragon Club, will be on the Boards. This will be Toumi's first appearance at Williams Lakes.

Compliments of the Season to All.

20,000,000 Trees For Fall Planting

Albany, Sept. 27.—Daily shipments of trees from the five forest tree nurseries of the Conservation Department, started last week, indicate that the fall planting season is now in full swing. At its completion the year's planting total is expected to be nearly 40,000,000 trees, the largest yet made on the reforestation areas in a single year. It also will complete the planting of upwards of 50,000 acres. All of the planting to be done this fall will cost the state no money, as only the enrolled men of the Civilian Conservation Corps, located at camps on or near the areas to be planted, will be used in the work.

The first shipment of trees for the fall operations left the Lake Clear nursery a week ago—some 316,000 of various species. Before the fall planting season is over the department will have shipped approximately 20,000,000. Last spring a like number were put in the ground.

The planting operations will be under the direct supervision of the district foresters of seven regular reforestation areas and also of the Camp Upton area on Long Island. It will be conducted in 17 counties—Allegany, Chautauqua, Chenango, Cortland, Franklin, Jefferson, Lewis, Madison, Oswego, Otsego, St. Lawrence, Schoharie, Schuyler, Steuben, Tioga, Tompkins and Suffolk.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Sept. 27.—The fine weather of Sunday proved an ideal setting for a well planned picnicing trip to Slide Mountain which was enjoyed by several of the older members of the West Shokan school with them their teacher, Mrs. Edward West, school officials and friends. Reese Smith of Main street took a group via Moonhaw Club over Cornell of the Wittenberg range down the northerly slope to Winnesook Club and thence up to the summit. Others were conveyed by autos to Winnisook Club, stopping at Allaben, where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. West and others from there, also Tannersville and Kingston. The hike from Winnisook to the summit was made over the Curtis trail which recently has been made a popular ski trail by CCC labor.

Jimmy Gordon, Ed Avery, Jimmy Burgher and Leslie F. Davis motored to New York city and witnessed from ringside seats the Baer-Louis encounter as guests of George Gibbons. All agreed that although the fight was short but furious, the bout was well worthwhile.

Charles Eckert, Olive Bridge farmer, is putting up a new silo. His neighbor, Carpenter William Lortz, is assisting with the job.

The fair town of Olive was well and prominently represented at a banquet held Wednesday evening at Golden Rule Inn. Among those present were Judge Henry Winchel, Kenneth Warren, superintendent of Beechford Farms, with several of his staff, Arthur E. Trowbridge, department of water supply engineer, and Foreman Virgil C. Gordon, William Shultis, Dorville Boice, Gardner Donahue, Myron Myers, Burton Barringer, Albert Myers, Floyd Barringer, Edmund C. Burgher, Conrad Christensen, Henry Merrihew, Ira Elmendorf, George Von Der Osten, Deyo Van Wagenen, William Jordan, Harlowe McLean, Ernest Palen, E. C. Davis and others.

Recently Mrs. S. E. Brundage of Lake Katrine gave a birthday party for her little granddaughter Lorraine E. Lortz, the occasion being in honor of her second birthday. The parties present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Brink, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eckert and daughter, of Krumville, Mrs. Frederick Keeler of Maryland, Mrs. Brooks North and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lortz and daughters of Olive Bridge. The delightful refreshment menu included birthday cakes and ice cream. Miss Lortz received presents suitable to gladden the heart of such a very young and charming lady.

West Shokan Baptist Ladies' Aid will serve a savory roast beef supper at the church basement Wednesday evening, October 9.

The west side was represented at the Shokan Church supper Thursday evening. Commissioner of Highways and Mrs. Claude Bell were among those attending.

Enrolled Democratic voters of the town will convene Saturday evening in the various school districts in caucus, there to elect three delegates to attend the convention Monday afternoon at 1:30 at Olive Bridge I. O. O. F. Hall, and there nominate their party ticket. The Republican slate will be named there Monday evening.

Egbert Boice of Main street recently trucked a load of coal from Scranton, Pennsylvania.

There will be services as usual Sunday afternoon at the West Shokan Church. Sunday School classes at 2 o'clock, and preaching by the Rev. Arnaldo Nazino at 3 o'clock.

Congratulations from many friends are extended Freda Van Demark, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Van Demark, of Watson Hollow road, who was tendered a birthday party Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Lortz of Olive Bridge on September 20 entertained at dinner her mother, Mrs. S. E. Brundage, and sister, Mrs. A. Brink of Lake Katrine.

Mrs. Francis Whispell of Main street successfully underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Benedictine Hospital, Kingston, Wednesday morning.

Broadway: "Top Hat." With music by Irving Berlin, a treat in itself, plus the graceful capering of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, this musical treat is a parade of song, clever dances, gayety, chatter and brilliance. Never was so nimble Astaire seen to more better advantage and Miss Rogers [illegible] association with the dancing star has made her a capable and [illegible] partner in their difficult dance routines. There are chorus numbers too, with a bevy of beautiful damsels all dressed up to please, for the entire production is constructed and made for the express purpose of showing Astaire and Rogers to best advantage. The entire [illegible] has been handled perfectly and [illegible] becomes [illegible] high entertainment, one of the bright pictures of the year. A cast of hundreds is headed by such prominent players as Edward Everett Horton, Eric Blore, Helen Broderick and Erik Rhodes. Here is an earful and eyeful of rare enjoyment.

Orpheum: "The Glass Key" and "Code of the Mounted." Dashiell Hammett's savage murder story becomes grim entertainment on the Orpheum screen in the first feature, but those who seek realism will thrill to the picture for it is both brutal and amazing drama. The plot centers around a political row between two big wigs and tells how Beaumont, played by George Raft, does his boss a good turn by getting into the camp of the enemy. Mr. Raft takes one of the worst physical beatings ever recorded before a camera during the course of events and he also gives his finest screen performance. Edward Arnold is also in the cast. "Code of the Mounted" is wildfire melodrama with Kermit Maynard doing the hero work in the grand manner.

Kingston: "The Farmer Takes a Wife." A smash hit on the legitimate stage, the talkie version also proves a sensation due in no small measure to Janet Gaynor and the handsome Henry Fonda. It's a tale of the days when the Erie canal was new and the love story centers around the efforts of a young man to bring the girl he loves into the bliss of farm life but this isn't easy as the girl has been brought up on a boat and likes the idea of staying on one. There are fights galore and the atmosphere of that busy day and age is faithfully produced. Slim Summerville adds some grand comedy moments. Janet Gaynor gives a convincing performance and Henry Fonda, borrowed from the Broadway stage, does so well in his first picture assignment that he is [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

Miss Withers is a talented performer and she handles her role of a little poor girl who is sent to a fine home to gain culture well, as the ease and finesse of a [illegible] actress. The show is [illegible] with comedy and Jackie Searl, Katherine Alexander and O. P. Heggie offer capable support. "Lost City" continues in serial form as an added feature of the Sunday [illegible].

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

The Barbara Bell Pattern Book featuring Fall Designs is ready. Send 15 cents today for your copy.

Pattern Nos. 1727-B and 1728-B

Two Smart Fall Models

No. 1727-B. Leg-o'-Mutton Sleeves Distinguish a Simple Frock

Some very new and smart details are incorporated in the design of this smart frock. There is the one sided closing of the skirt, completely divorced from the center front closing of the blouse.

Leg-o'-mutton sleeves are used effectively. Large at the top they taper towards the wrist in traditional manner. The collar is small and round with two tabs and button to trim the front. There is a panel from shoulders to hem in back, giving nice long lines and a bit of interest to the plain back.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1727-B is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 2⅝ yards of 54-inch material.

This pattern may be procured for 15 cents.

No. 1728-B. One-Piece Dress with Shirtmaker Details

The collar of this smartly tailored model may be a little round one, high at the neckline, or the front may be laid back in a manner that suggests a little boy's sport shirt. A tie is nice for either one, one quite mannish, like a four-in-hand, the other soft, with flowing ends. A pocket is formed by the square cut lines of the blouse seams, which give the effect of a vestee in front, and a panel in back. A narrow panel begins at the waistline in front and back of the simple skirt, and while the skirt is smooth over the hips and down the sides, there is a decided flare at the bottom.

LEAKY VASE MAY BE USED AS ATTRACTIVE TABLE LAMP

If you have any beautiful old vases which will not hold water or do not fit into your decorative scheme as a receptable for flowers, they may be used to advantage as lamps.

Fitting these with a cork or light wooden "stopper" to hold the lamp shade frame and wiring them may require some ingenuty. If it is too much for you, try a lamp shop. The cost will be far less than that of a new lamp. The lampshade you may make or paint yourself, being certain that the decorative scheme blends with the vase.

Cracked vases may also be used for dried flowers or grasses. Or they may be repaired with cement but be sure the cement is right. Porcelain and glass require different kinds.

LUSCIOUS FROSTINGS AND FILLINGS MAKE CAKES MORE DELICIOUS

Little gems of cakes! And though you might never guess it, they're just cup cakes, made from a simple butter-cake recipe. It's the delicate frosting and the "trimmings" that give them their air of saying. "Let's have a party."

Often, you'll notice, it's the simplest kind of frostings that are most successful . . . that bring the most flattering compliments. The icing used for our festive small cakes is a quickly made uncooked frosting—a deliciously smooth, creamy one that you can cary in flavor and coloring. This is the basic recipe:

Butter Cream Frosting.

2 tablespoons butter.
1 egg white.
2 cups powdered sugar.
1 teaspoon vanila.
½ teaspoon almond extract.

Cream butter, add unbeaten egg white, and beat thoroughly, gradually working in sugar and flavorings. If you'd prefer a softer frosting, add 1 tablespoon boiling water and beat hard for a minute.

Now for variations of the recipe, and some "trimmings." In place of vanilla and almond flavoring use a tablespoon of orange juice and a little grated orange rind. To make a lucious mocha-flavored frosting, omit the almond extract from the basic recipe, and add 6 tablespoons of sifted cocoa, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, and about 2 tablespoons of strong, hot coffee.

Frost little chocolate cakes with the mocha or plain frosting, and decorate with chocolate sprinkles coconut, or chopped nuts. Make butterfly cakes — youngsters love these—by sticking little "wings" of cake into the frosting. Color the plain frosting with vegetable food coloring, and have delicately tinted little cakes for special parties.

Fashions and Household Hints for Women

Feminine and Dressy Costumes Shown for Afternoon and Evening

By BARBARA BELL

Look as brisk and trim as you like before noon, but prepare to be feminine after the clock strikes twelve. Hang up that slip of a dark wool frock which has served you so admirably during busy hours, and change to a silken lady of leisure. Fashion has gone formal with a vengeance—and with flattery for all concerned.

Though this dressier movement may seem to complicate life, it actually helps to simplify things, since the new afternoon costumes can be worn through the evening as well. "Street length" is the smart length for many important dinner gowns which achieve sufficient formality through the use of rich fabrics. By street length is meant about nine or ten inches from the floor—a few inches longer than your strictly tailored and sports dresses. You'll want floor-length frocks too, of course, for gala nights.

Jewelled accents, separate or as part of the frock itself, have an expensive look that assures them a tremendous season. A rhinestone "dog collar" may sparkle against a dull crepe frock which repeats the glittering note in two wide bracelets on the long sleeves. Gold links may form a chain which swings just under a wide cowl collar. Or a three-tier necklace of pearls may fasten across the front and disappear at the shoulders. Enormous rhinestone clips, fobs and buttons shine from beneath draped folds.

Sleeves, lavishly trimmed, are responsible for much of this autumn formality. Cut wide and full, many stop half-way between wrist and elbow, to show off big bracelets. Others fit into tight, deep cuffs, or are touched off with shirring or a butterfly frill. Much use is made of pleating, some sleeves made entirely of tiny accordion pleats. Double loops, shirred at the inside edge, are a brand new idea for a cuff. Banding of flat fur, velvet, braid and fine tucks suggest other chic ways of decoration.

As interest is concentrated above the waistline, skirts are comparatively simple. Smooth hips and a slight flare at the hem are the two essential factors. Shirred front fulness, pleats or panels are style points which tend to vary the silhouette.

Waistlines themselves are brought into the limelight by wide crushed sashes, often in velvet, thick cords which loop at the front of the frock, their tasselled ends nearly reaching the hem, and jewelled belts or buckles. Braided velvet belts in two and three colors may harmonize with similar braiding at neck and sleeves—a lively detail for the dark crepe frock.

One glimpse at the glamarous fabrics slated for afternoon fashions, and you cease to wonder why this has been termed a luxury season. Silks are richer, velvets more prominent, gleaming metallic materials more impressive. Man-made fibres have been employed in highly ingenious weaves—lovely to look at and not too expensive to sew.

Real silks are having a heyday Rough and smooth surfaces, novelty patterns—all with a soft, drapey quality in keeping with present-day styles. Blistered weaves display tiny, decorative designs; a series of florals are charming with velvet flowers to trim. Classic cantons and mossy crepes are as popular as ever. Transparent velvet is popular, and a few printed velvets are seen.

A mint of new metal fabrics are at your disposal. Enough gold and silver lames to withstand any depression, not to mention gunmetal, bronze, and a bronzy green. Watch for these in very simple street-length evening dresses, in tunic and costume blouses with black velvet skirts, in gleaming touches on silk and velvet frocks. Silks are woven with shining metal threads, sometimes in faint stripes, sometimes in definite patterns.

Satin and satin-backed crepes continue important, with blistered satin particularly good. Slipper satin is used in bows, collars and plastrons. Velveteen finds a new formality in frocks with peplums and wide rippling collars. Some lace is used, but mostly metallic.

All-black is the autumn favorite, doubtless because of the vogue for glittering accents. Greens with a bluish and olive cast, dark Egyptian and cinnamon brown, peacock blue, wine, paprika and butter-scotch are high on the list, the latter distinctive with dark accessories.

Knitted Swagger Jacket Will Turn Autumn's Chill

This short, very chic jacket, with the stand-up ruff, will be grand for cool autumn days. You may knit it yourself, too, of mercerized knitting and crochet cotton. Any of the bright fall colors may be selected.

MODES of the MOMENT

Many cute four-piece sets of knitted wool are being shown for juveniles' winter wardrobes—some in pastel tints, others in darker shades with bright contrast, such as navy blue, brown, or green, with yellow, orange or colorful roman stripe trimmings.

In the sketch above, the youngster at left wears a four-piece outfit of fine shaker knit, combining sweater, storm leggins, toque and gauntlet gloves. This set features navy blue with yellow for trim. A slashed turn-over collar trims the sweater neckline and purling finishes the waistband and ankle bands of the suspender leggins, in a ribbed stitch for a snug fit. The gauntlet gloves and the toque of pull-over styling also match the color effect.

The cute, knitted snow outfit at right also includes four matching pieces—a coat sweater, ski pants, gauntlet gloves and helmet in navy blue with brightly colored roman stripes for trimming. The sweater uses a roman striped scarf at the neckline, and the sleeve cuffs and pocket also use the roman stripe trim effectively. It fastens all the way down the front with a slide fastener.

BLOUSE NO. 2256.

Tassels are prominently used in this blouse model in place of buttons. The open work at the vest section creates the fashionable shirtmaker type, which finds its place in all modish models. French zephyr which is a light-weight yarn is recommended for making. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to Editor Women's Page, Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., for directions to duplicate this model. Order by number.

Choose Your Favorite Picture— Then Design Your Room Around It

Colors of a modern print set the key for this room.

By MARGERY TAYLOR

Copyright, 1935, by McCall's Magazine for The Freeman.

How to have world-famous artists design your rooms—without knowing it—is a trick which smart women are learning from modern decorators.

The idea is to build the color scheme for a whole room around the key colors in a beautiful painting. Remarkably accurate color reproductions of some of the best paintings, old and new, are now so reasonably priced that we can all have one as the center of interest in at least our living room.

Suppose your living room is darkish—it will be brightened with a brilliant Von Gogh painting of Provence sunshine. "Cornfield and Cypress"—swirling white clouds, golden yellow fields and green trees—calls for a setting of off-white walls, yellow ceiling, deep bright green rug, yellow draperies, cocoa-brown, yellow, green and blue upholstery and gold and white accessories.

Or there is the man's room—or the boy's—and nothing could be more appropriate than the blue and red horse paintings of the young artist, Marc. "The Blue Horse," for instance, shows a single blue pony against blue sky, red and purple hills and green cactus. With this framed in silver wood or mirror glass, over mantel or bed, the walls should be painted said color or dusty gray and the ceiling and woodwork blue. Floor should be carpeted in deep blue, or painted blue as a background for Navajo blanket scatter rugs in beige, blue, dark red and green. Bedspread and curtains of natural monkscloth trimmed with wine red, lounge chair in wine red sailcloth, and accessories in copper and green, complete the picture.

The decoration of a girl's room will find perfect inspiration in a Degas group of ballet dancers or a girl's head by Marie Laurencen or one of those amusingly simple Nura paintings. A Laurencen, for instance, would be framed in white for a room in white, dusty blue and cerise pink to match the painting's colors.

Lighted Make-Up Box

New light is being cast on the problems of make-up with a dressing table box which is automatically illuminated. The box, originated by a leading plate glass manufacturer, is fashioned entirely of mirrors. A circular make-up mirror in the top is surrounded by small lights which go on when the lid is lifted. In addition to its practical features the box makes a stunning accessory for a dressing table.

For Sandwich Makers

Never put the salt into your lettuce, tomato or other salad sandwiches when you are preparing them, for the salt makes them limp ere the time of consumption. Carry the salt separately to the picnic, or if making them for the afternoon tea sprinkle the salt at the last minute.

PATTERN 5447

Even though you don't like spiders, you've probably often admired the beauty of their cobwebs. Here are some crocheted doilies that are just as lovely in their cobwebby laciness as these. They're made of string—you can use a finer cotton if you want smaller doilies—and they're a bit of handiwork you'll be proud of. And, if you're smart, you'll make some for that bazaar that's coming soon. They are done so fast and, of course, cost next to nothing to make. And you will be pleased to see the way they'll sell! Imagine your guests at a luncheon table set with these doilies. Won't anything you serve be enhanced by the beauty of this setting? You can also use them as a buffet set, as doilies, on the serving tray or occasional table.

In pattern 5447 you will find complete instructions for making the doilies shown; an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

It should be noted that the doubles require a soil which is a little more fertile than the singles.

BEST TO PLAN SPRING GARDEN IMPROVEMENTS THIS FALL

By THE MASTER GARDENER

Now, with this year's results and failures fresh in mind, is a good time to rearrange your garden plans for next spring. Not only are you in a better position to make your plan, but with your plan ready, you will be able to do much of the preparatory work, such as preparing the soil for those plants which must be planted very early in the spring.

If you make a new plan for your garden [illegible] you will know just where you want to plant shrubs, trees and shrubbery and you will be in position to go right ahead with the work when the proper planting time rolls around.

Yellow Jackets Open Season Sunday Against Newburgh

Sunday afternoon the Reis Brothers Yellow Jackets will open their football season, meeting the Recreations of Newburgh at the Kingston Fair Grounds. Starting time of the game is 3 o'clock

Last fall, the Yellow Jackets started off against the Newburgh Hellos and fell before the attack of the visitors who steered clear of them for the remainder of the season. Sunday the locals hope to avenge last year's setback and get off on the right path by rolling up an overwhelming score.

However, accomplishing such an aim against a team like the Recreations should prove to be a real hard task as the Newburgh club is composed of the best gridders in the Hilly City, the roster including the names of ex-DUSO League stars such as Argenio and Chumas and a number of the players who were with the Hellos last fall.

Manager Charlie Raible surely picked no set-up for his Wasps when he signed with Newburgh, but he is confident that the Yellow Jackets will come through with a victory.

Although Coach G Warren Klas has not named a definite starting lineup, a glance at the probable starters listed below shows that Manager Raible has the cream of the local football crop ready to fight for the laurels in Sunday's contest.

The tentative lineups:

Yellow Jackets	Recreations
LE—Debrosky	Argenio
LT—J. Tiano	Griffin
LG—Steigerwald	Sansbury
C — Beany	Revell
RG—Cherney	Van Wort
RT—Raible	Antonvich

QB—Cullum	Chumas

More Bass to Improve Fishing Conditions

Albany, Sept. 27.—Removal of over 1,000 undersized smallmouth bass from the waters of the Schoharie Creek above Gilboa reservoir, an experiment on the part of the conservation department in its program to improve fishing conditions throughout the state, has been accomplished within the past two weeks, according to announcement today. Lithgow Osborne, conservation commissioner, stated that the results obtained in this experiment have led him to the decision that the work will be continued next spring on a larger scale, and it undoubtedly will become a part of the department's permanent policy.

For a number of years complaints have been received at the offices of the conservation department that the various species of fish were invading trout waters of the state, either driving the trout out or proving to be of permanent harm; likewise reports have also been received of other species being driven from natural habitat by other kinds of fish. The work of the biological survey has shown that there are many bodies of water from which suitable fish were being driven by natural enemies, made up of other kinds of fish. Commissioner Osborne decided to conduct the experiment on the Schoharie Creek above the Gilboa reservoir and to remove large numbers of bass to warmer and larger bodies of water in accordance with the recommendations of the survey. Since the completion of the Gilboa dam about nine years ago, bass have migrated up the Schoharie Creek in large numbers. They have become so numerous that the food supply is depleted and the bass are unable to attain a normal size. At the same time they have become a competitor of the trout, which have always inhabited the creek, and have driven away many of them.

Some Comments On Leading Football Contests for Today

South Bend, Ind., Sept 28 (AP).—Kansas University, which tipped the football world off that all was not well at Notre Dame in 1933 by holding the Irish to a scoreless tie, was back today for an attempt to do as well or better.

The Jayhawks, rated as exceptionally strong defensively and at least good at ground gaining, figured to give the Irish a thorough opening game test. Notre Dame, with a veteran backfield appeared assured of a strong attack, and hopes to find the line as capable today.

The kickoff was scheduled for 1:30 (Central Standard Time).

Seek Revenge for 1929 Defeat.

Lincoln, Neb, Sept. 28 (AP)—The 46th annual gridiron campaign of the University of Nebraska opened today with the University of Chicago as its first test Cornhusker athletic department officials expected a record first game attendance of 30,000.

The kickoff was scheduled for 2 p. m. (Central Standard Time).

It will be the second meeting of the two schools at football. The only other game was played in 1906 at the Windy City and the Cornhuskers will attempt today to avenge a 38 to 5 defeat Nebraska suffered 29 years ago at the hands of Chicago, when Walter Eckersall was the star of the Maroons.

Tulane Has New Lineup.

New Orleans, Sept. 28 (AP)—With an entirely new but promising lineup from the one that won the Sugar Bowl game a year ago, the Tulane green wave squared off against Virginia Military Institute Cadets in the season's first game today. Coach Tex Cox was counting on Captain Barney Mintz to fill the shoes left vacant by graduation of "Little Monk" Simons, the Greenies touchdown star last year. The game starts at 2:30 p. m. (C. S. T.).

Undefeated for Two Years.

Minneapolis, Sept. 28 (AP).—Minnesota's national gridiron champions, two undefeated years behind them, sought today to extend that record in their 1935 opener against North Dakota State.

The 1934 juggernaut that rolled over all opposition wrecked by graduation and ineligibility of nearly a score of regulars and first string reserves, Bernie Bierman has assembled an eleven which includes several sophomores as probable starters.

Approximately 35,000, a new record for the season's opener, were expected to see the game, which starts at 2 p. m. (Central Standard Time).

Goodman To Leave Wiltwyck Golf Club

Thomas Goodman, who has been manager and pro at the Wiltwyck Golf Club on Hurley avenue for the last two years, will sever his connection with the club on September 30. Guests are cordially invited to play one of the outstanding golf courses of the Hudson valley.

Golf balls and accessories will be for sale at the club house as heretofore.

American League Plans to be Outlined For Basketball

Plans for the 1935-36 season of the American Professional Basketball League, states President John O'Brien, will be outlined at its fall meeting to be held in New York city early next week.

The increased interest in professional basketball manifested last year, following the remarkable playing of the Brooklyn Visitations, winners of the world's championship, has resulted in more applications for franchise from prominent cities being filed than ever before in the history of this organization. Managers in Albany, Schenectady, Kingston, Buffalo, New Haven, Conn.; Paterson, N. J.; Trenton, N. J.; Atlantic City, N. J.; Providence, R. I.; and the Bronx, N. Y., are some who have asked for consideration.

While it is not likely that many of these cities will be accepted, because of the retention of almost all of last year's clubs, still the officials of the American Basketball league are definitely committed to a policy of widening the scope of activities wherever possible. Because of this the present indications the that when the roster for 1935-36 is finally announced it will be comprised of the strongest available clubs located in the principal cities along the Atlantic seaboard, with better balance, spirited competition, and keener sectional interest afforded than has been true in the past three years.

There are no important changes to be effected in the playing regulations which have apparently met with universal favor during the past two seasons, but some slight modification of the present rules governing a player fouled without having possession of the ball will receive consideration from the Rules Committee.

Chicago Has Big Four Hurling Staff All Capable Of Pitching Full Game

By DICK STROBEL

Chicago (AP)—These are happy days for the loquacious one of the Chicago Cubs—Catcher Gabby Hartnett.

Beneath his barrel-like chest a heart surges with joy, contemplating the prospect of engaging the Detroit Tigers in the World Series.

Mere gold is not the motivating force. His delight comes from the fact he has four starting pitchers, all capable of going the full route.

To appreciate the full extent of Gabby's unrestrained glee, it must be borne in mind that such a situation, especially for the rotund Mr. Hartnett, is unique.

Too often has he watched some well-intentioned pitcher driven to the showers. Therefore, when he considers Lon Warneke, Larry French, Bill Lee and Charley Root, his happiness knows no bounds.

They Start And Finish

Each has contributed his share to the stretch drive that carried the Cubs to the top of the National league. Together they established something of a record by starting, finishing and winning 14 out of 15 straight games. The Cubs won the odd game, too.

Warneke, the Arkansas sphinx, is the ace of the pitching regiment, the donor of a score of victories to the Cubs' cause.

Despite the loss of ten pounds during the 1935 campaign, Warneke toiled his full share of games. Unflustered on the mound, although occasionally temperamental elsewhere, he likes it when the going is tough. His fast ball, change of pace, and control are the factors responsible for his success.

One Southpaw In "Big 4"

Of the Cubs' big four, only Larry French is a lefthander. His current fortune on the mound is the best he has enjoyed in years, and the Cub management regards his as 50 per cent better than when he worked for Pittsburgh.

Perhaps some of his success is due to his mastery of the curve ball During most of his career, French relied greatly on a "screw-ball," finding his efforts with curves generally were productive of hits and free passes to first base. Now he still uses his old standby, but only to provide variety.

Root Is Back In Form

The biggest surprise in the pitching department is the veteran Charley Root, whose exhibitions this year are rivalled only by his 1929 successes.

Root was too much of a good thing in those days, and he was sadly overworked the next three years. Given the rest he required in 1933 and 1934, he blossomed out this year in his old form, much to the delight of all concerned with the pennant aspirations of the Cubs.

Equally as gratifying has been the performance of Bill Lee in his second year with the Cubs Youngest in point of service, he possesses, in Hartnett's opinion, one of the best curves in the game. His fast ball and control have stood the test of big-time competition, and in any engagement, he will be as valuable as the next.

They're Unlucky, Too

It was only natural that with all this good fortune, the Cubs should experience some compensating bad luck, which manifested itself in the disappointing showing of Tex Carleton.

When the season started, Carleton was billed as a starting pitcher Then Carleton was hit most profusely. Promptly he became a relief pitcher. In that capacity he has been a valuable adjunct.

The rest of the relief load has been, with some exceptions, the burden of Roy Henshaw, a southpaw. His inclinations toward wildness have prevented him from becoming the first rate pitcher the Cub bosses believe he some day will be.

What remains of the relief duty is handled by Clyde Shoun, Hugh Casey and Fabian Kowalik, none of whom has seen a great deal of service with the Cubs.

Vaughan and Vosmik Lead Their Leagues

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—Despite the possible results of the last two days of play, there seems to be no danger at all in awarding the major league batting titles to Floyd (Arky) Vaughan of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Joe Vosmik of the Cleveland Indians before the final results are in.

Vaughan was as safe as the proverbial church at the top of the National League when the unofficial records up through Friday showed a .386 average for him and .350 for his nearest rival, Joe Medwick of St. Louis. There was a chance that Buddy Myer of Washington, trailing Vosmik's .351 by six points, could capture the American League lead but it was a slim one. The third place men in both leagues, Gabby Hartnett of Chicago at .344 and Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics at .338 were too far back to be considered.

The first 10 regulars in each major league follow:

CCC Plays Chichester October 6 in Last Game

As a result of winning a double-header from the CCC nine on the Black Bear diamond last Sunday the Chichester team has been challenged by the CCC outfit to play a game on Sunday, October 6, the winner to take the entire gate receipts. Chichester has accepted the challenge "Red" Lane will pitch for the local team and North of Stone Ridge will pitch for the visitors. This will be the last game of the season at the Black Bear diamond. This Sunday the Kingston Senecas will play on the mountain diamond.

In the first game last Sunday Chichester made 16 hits and 14 runs while the CCC's made 4 hits and 7 run. Stalker hit a home run in this game and "Let" Grant smashed out a homer, two 2 base hits and a single. Lane and Zimmerman formed the battery for Chichester North pitched for the CCC's and Collins caught.

The second game was more interesting and exciting. The final score was 7 to 6. Chichester garnered 8 hits from Bentley's delivery and the visitors made 6 against "Lefty" Peck.

Fleet Fox And 'Aging' Goose Are Ferocious Tigers At Bat

(This is the last of a series of stories analyzing the Detroit Tigers.)

By EARL HILLIGAN

Detroit (AP).—With the Fox and the Goose lies most of the power in the Detroit Tigers' outer garden.

This may sound like a nursery tale, but it's a fact that the batting of Ervin (Pete) Fox, right-fielder, and Leon (Goose) Goslin, leftfielder, has done much to put Detroit far out in front in the American League race.

Fox, for several seasons only a mediocre batter at best, has had the best year of his career this past season. To him Manager Cochrane gives a large share of credit for starting the team on its climb from the cellar, in April, to the league leadership in July. Fox, at one stage of his hitting streak, hit safely in 29 straight games and in a few weeks increased his batting percentage more than 40 points.

A Veteran "Sparker"

Right now "Peter the Rabbit" is hitting far above the .300 mark and is fielding brilliantly. He has a fine arm and is one of the hardest workers on the club. He injured his throwing arm during the first game of the final Yank-Tiger series, but should be in shape by the time the regular season ends.

The veteran Goslin provided much of the spark which sent the Tigers into the World Series of 1934. This year he has been one of the Tiger "G-men" combination—Goslin, Gehringer and Greenberg—and his runs-batted-in average has been particularly high. Batting fifth, he has won many ball games and among his mates is voted one of the best men "in the clutch" on the club.

Goslin has lost much of his old time speed, but somehow he manages to cover plenty of territory in left field. He still has the competitive spirit to try for any kind of a catch and his "shoestring" grabs and snatches while backed up against the wall have saved Detroit many ball games. He has been a .300 class hitter since early season.

Goose is spending his 14th year in the major leagues and his batting average over that period is a healthy .322.

Jo-Jo White has proved one of the finest defensive centerfielders Detroit has had in some time. The fastest man on the club, Jo-Jo can go far to right or left and repeatedly pulls down balls which appear certain extra-base hits. He is used as lead-off man, and once on base is troublesome to pitchers.

Slumps at Bat

At the plate he has had a poor season, batting around the .250 mark compared to the .313 he hit last year.

Gerald Walker, who has been fighting for a regular job in the outfield all season, appears at times to be one of the most gifted ball players on the club. A fast, brilliant fielder, he is a better hitter than White, but because of his faulty base-running and mental lapses, Cochrane has kept him on the bench.

As a pinch-hitter he has delivered regularly. Last year he hit an even .300.

The fifth Tiger outfielder, Hugh Shelley, joined the club in August, coming up from Toledo He is fast and a good base runner. In six times at bat he has produced two hits and his stance at the plate indicates he may solve big-league pitching.

Sizing Up Rival Pitching Staffs of World Series Teams

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs, having chased the gas house gang back across the tracks, now can turn their undivided attention to the forthcoming world series battle with the Detroit Tigers.

Charley Grimm's Bruins have every reason to be confident, even though they start the series on the enemy's grounds next Wednesday and will bump into the toughest American League outfit since Ruth, Gehrig & Company were "tops" in baseball. The Cubs won the pennant the hard way. They whipped the Dean brothers in their own backyard and ended the championship reign of the Gas House Gang with one of the greatest winning streaks on record.

Have Had Superb Pitching

Throughout their 21-game march from third place to the National League pennant, the Cubs got superb pitching. Only three starters have been relieved. Their staff of front-line flingers not only looks to be "hot" but better balanced than the Detroit sharpshooting corps. This may be offset by a more ferocious Tiger attack, but the Cub quartet composed of Lonnie Warneke, Larry French, Big Bill Lee and Charley Root should be a great match for Schoolboy Rowe, Elden Auker, Tommy Bridges and Alvin (General) Crowder, the Tiger "Big Four".

All the starting assignments likely will go to these fingers. The strong probability is that Manager Mickey Cochrane, as he did last year, will gamble with his veteran right-hander, Crowder, as an opening game opponent for Warneke, who is certain to be the No. 1 man for Chicago. This would defer until later in the series at least, a duel between the right-handed rivals from Arkansas, Warneke from Mt. Ida in the Ozarks and Rowe from El Dorado.

The rival pitching equipment offers good grounds for heated debate. The Cubs have beter southpaw resources, with the seasoned French for starting jobs and the brilliant little Roy Henshaw in reserve. They have a sensational sophomore right-hander in Lee, a fugitive from the Cardinal chain-gang, to match the Tiger second-year star, Auker, whose submarine ball may baffle the Bruins. The come-back of Crowder for the Tigers is rivalled by that of Root, enjoying his finest year for the Cubs since 1929.

Much Depends on Rowe

For the Tigers much depends on whether Rowe is "right". The tall right-hander has had an erratic year. He has been either "hot" or "cold". Warneke, too, suffered lapses but he has been at his peak during the Cub drive, capping the climax with a two-hit shutout of the Cardinals this week. For comparative purposes it is worth noting that Warneke has won his last seven successive starts, whereas Rowe has split even in his last six games.

Bridges, at his best under fire, may get the call over Rowe in Cochrane's scheme of pitcher rotation. Tennessee Tommy stood the Cardinals on their ears last year at St. Louis. When he has control he is tough to touch. Southpaw Elon Hogsett, Vic Sorrell, veteran right-hander; Joe Sullivan, rookie portsider; and Roxie Lawson, right-handed sensation who came up late this season; round out the Tiger staff. Hogsett is the "fireman."

James (Tex) Carlton, former Cardinal, and Henshaw are likely to be Grimm's choices for relief duty. Fabian Kowalik, who came up from Buffalo, also is on the bullpen list.

Wally Berger of the lowly Boston Braves doesn't have many fans watching him these days but in view of his performances it's quite likely either the amazing Cubs or the steady Tigers would be glad to have him around for the world series.

While the Cubs were clinching the National League pennant and extending their great winning streak to 21 games with a double victory over the Cardinals, 6-2, and 5-3, the Braves were extending their record string of losses to 114 for the season by splitting a bargain bill with the Giants.

Berger, however, continued to cover himself with glory. He contributed a hit to the opening 6 to 4 victory, in which the cellar dwellers routed Carl Hubbell in two innings, then belted his 34th home run of the year in the last inning of the afterpiece. Wally drove in two counters in that game, bringing his season's total to 127. That's no mean feat considering the Braves have scored only 569 runs all season. His hitting however, was not enough to keep the Giants from winning the battle 8 to 5 when a six-run burst in the seventh overcame Boston's early lead and Roy Parmelee's fine relief pitching maintained the advantage.

The two bargain bills were the only major league games played yesterday as the Detroit-Chicago and St. Louis-Cleveland games in the American League were rained out and the other clubs had a day of scheduled idleness.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—The alcohols, motors and a few scattered specialties accounted for the principal buying in today's brief stock market session.

Traders exhibited more than their usual caution and dullness was the rule throughout. Many issues were unchanged. The close was fairly steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

The speculative urge seemingly was dormant so far as the majority of leading equities was concerned.

Friendliness for the automotive group was said to have been based on hopes that the new cars, shortly to make their appearance, will attract a sales demand above the ordinary.

The coming to life of the liquor section reflected estimates of seasonal gains in consumption which are being experienced by some of the larger companies.

Commodities offered little assistance to stocks. Gains were inclined to slip and cotton backed and filled diffidently. Bonds were listless, although U. S. government securities were a bit improved. Various gold currencies edged higher in foreign exchange dealings.

Quotations given by Parker, McElroy & Co., members, N. Y. Stock Exchange, 120 Broadway, New York city; branch office, 282 Wall street.

Delinquents Should Pay Taxes Shortly

City Treasurer C. Mr. Everett said that he desired to afford every taxpayer who has failed to pay the current school tax the cost of the notice and the additional 5 per cent fee and for that reason would delay the sending out of the notice as long as he possibly could. It will be necessary, however, to mail out these notices within the next few days.

Hiking Fish

Fish that climb trees are not so rare as fish that go on hiking expeditions. In the latter class, Anabas Testudineus, a 4-inch member of the perch genus, stands, or rather walks, supreme. Equipped by nature with a pair of stilt-like pectoral fins, he is able to propel himself over the ground at a fair speed. But for some curious reason he only "hikes" when the earth is soft and moist. In India, the country of his origin, his expeditions from pond to pond take place either after a rain or at dawn while the dew remains. Though far from a beauty prize winner, the anabas, handicapped by a blunt nose and brassy body, is eagerly sought by pet dealers and collectors throughout the country.—Tit-Bits Magazine.
